

EVENING NEWS REVIEW.

TWELFTH YEAR. NO. 298.

EAST LIVERPOOL, OHIO, THURSDAY, JUNE 10, 1897.

TWO CENTS

WE MAY ADOPT HAWAII.

Administration to Take Up Annexation After the Tariff.

TREATY STILL BOTHERS SENATORS.

The Republican Leaders Will Withdraw Amendments For Additional Taxes on Beer and Tea—Talking of a Bank Check Stamp Tax.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—There are several propositions under consideration by the senate committee on finance on the Hawaiian treaty, as it relates to the sugar schedule, but there is difficulty in agreeing upon any of them. They include the endorsement of the Davis amendment for continuing the present treaty in force without reservation, a suggestion to the president that a new treaty should be negotiated modifying the terms of the existing agreement so as to render them less partial to Hawaii and also a proposition looking to the giving of a year's notice to Hawaii of the abrogation of the present treaty. This later proposition is understood to originate with Senator Aldrich and is antagonized by the especial champions of Hawaii.

The opinion is freely expressed by senators that the question of annexation will be taken up by the administration as soon as the tariff is passed.

The Republican members of the finance committee will withdraw the amendments for an additional tax on beer and for the duty of 10 cents a pound on tea. In explanation of this a member of the finance committee said that the pressure for the withdrawal of these amendments has been very great and that many Republican senators have made decided stands against them. The formal action of the committee on the subject has not been taken, but the determination has been reached. The members of the committee are still in doubt as to what shall be done with increases on tobacco in the internal revenue part of the bill, but there has been great pressure to have these taxes reduced.

The question of revenue is giving the committee considerable concern, and if there should be a withdrawal of the increases on tobacco, as well as those on beer and tea, the bill would not meet the needs of the government as a revenue producer. For this reason it has been practically determined to make a bank check stamp tax, and the question of additional revenue by means of a system of stamp taxes on beer has been under consideration. The committee is considering these questions and endeavoring to meet them as they proceed.

A DOCTRINAL DISPUTE.

Mills Thinks Democrats Who Voted For Cotton Duty Are Heretics—Rawlins, a Tariff Plank Framer, Think They Held Close to the Faith.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—A period of tariff speeches prevented little progress on the tariff bill in the senate. Mr. Rawlins (Utah) and Mr. Mills (Tex.) discussed the Democratic attitude on the tariff from their respective standpoints. Mr. Rawlins was a member of the platform committee of the Chicago convention and proposed the tariff plank which was adopted. He held that the vote he and several other Democratic senators had cast for duties on cotton and other agricultural products was justified by that platform and by the traditions of the party.

While Mr. Rawlins was talking, Mr. Lindsay (Ky.), platform in hand, interrupted to ask Mr. Rawlins, since he presented the tariff clause, why the good old Democratic word "only" after "tariff for revenue" came to be omitted, was it an intentional omission. Mr. Lindsay asked.

"I think not," responded Mr. Rawlins.

"I can throw some light on that subject," said Mr. Tillman, who was also a member of the committee on platform at the Chicago convention. "It was omitted purposely after discussion."

Mr. Mills severely arraigned the bill as a class measure designed to build up a vast fund for distribution among the beneficiaries of the bill and at the expense of the "forgotten man," the taxpayer. He indirectly criticized those Democratic senators who voted for the amendments to the bill putting a tax on cotton and other articles, contending that their course was a radical departure from the tenets of Democracy.

Mr. Cannon (Utah) proposed an amendment placing an export bounty on agricultural products. He spoke for two hours on the need of giving the farmer a share of the benefits of the tariff. Mr. Butler (N. C.) also spoke in favor of giving the farmer equal benefits with other classes under the bill. Only half a page of the bill, covering four brief and comparatively unimportant paragraphs (229 to 233) were disposed of.

SUPPLY OF ARMOR PLATE.

Secretary of the Navy Shows What Each Company Has Furnished.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—The secretary of the navy has sent to the senate, in response to a resolution of inquiry, a statement concerning the cost and quantity of armor plate which has been supplied to the government by the Carnegie and Bethlehem companies since they began the supply.

The statement shows that the Carnegie company has supplied 12,127 tons at prices ranging from $515 to $661 and that the Bethlehem company has supplied 13,302 tons within the same range of prices. Referring to the clause in the senate's resolution asking for information as to "how much financial assistance the government has given the companies," the secretary says that no assistance has been given.

A Tragedy in Washington.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—At 820 Fourteenth street, the home of Cherubino Giuliani, an Italian fruit vender, Tacopo Ferrari, after shooting and stabbing in the neck Mrs. Giuliani, shot himself through the head and died almost instantly. The woman recovered. She had repulsed his attentions.

ANGELL NOT YET ACCEPTED.

Turkey Still Silent and the Sailing Tomorrow Postponed.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—Dr. Angell will be obliged to cancel his engagement to sail for Europe tomorrow. Up to this time the Turkish government has not returned an opinion as to whether the explanations offered as to the record of the minister are satisfactory to it and it is not deemed wise to make an issue by allowing Dr. Angell to proceed to his post at Constantinople until it is known positively that he will be persona grata.

The delay of the Turkish government in passing on Dr. Angell's acceptability is causing some discomfort at the state department, but the officials have not yet changed their belief that in the end the minister will be received.

LEISHMAN GETS THE JOB.

The Pittsburg Ex-Iron Magnate Goes to Switzerland.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—The senate has confirmed the following nominations:

Henry L. Wilson of Washington, minister to Chile; John G. A. Leishman of Pennsylvania, minister to Switzerland; Lawrence Townsend of Pennsylvania, minister to Portugal.

ENDED IN A LIVELY DRAW.

Sharkey Hit a Maher Second and the Police Corralled the Crowd.

NEW YORK, June 10.—Peter Maher and Tom Sharkey fought last night at the Palace Athletic club for a $15,000 purse. Fully 10,000 people saw the bout.

Maher was a big favorite, but there was lots of money on Sharkey.

The boxing was very tame for five rounds. In the sixth round Sharkey, with a well directed straight right on the mouth, sent Peter sprawling half way through the ropes, where he struggled for five seconds before he regained his feet. As Maher was getting up Sharkey rushed toward him, but was called back by Choyinski, who was evidently afraid that the sailor might commit a foul.

Ten seconds later the gong ended the sixth round and when Maher returned to his corner he spat out a lot of blood. Sharkey's friends, when they saw this, yelled "first blood for Sharkey" and there was a great deal of cheering.

The seventh round was nearly completed when Maher, after getting in some good blows on Sharkey, sent the latter to the floor near the ropes with a left in the wind and a right swing on the jaw. Tom was up again inside of five seconds and rushed into a clinch.

In this clinch Maher kept working his right on the body, and when the gong sounded neither heeded the warning of the timekeeper, but kept on hitting each other. One of Maher's seconds rushed over and grabbed Maher. While he was trying to pull the big fellow away Sharkey swung his right on the seconds' face, dazing him. By this time the house was in an uproar and there were cries of "foul" from the partisans of both men. The din was terrific, but was increased tenfold when Inspector McLaughlin and the police arrested all those concerned in the fight. It was declared a draw.

OHIOANS AFTER A TRAMP.

Another Mob Tried to Lynch the Assailant of a Woman.

BATAVIA, O., June 10.—The quiet little village of Williamsburg has been thrown into a state of excitement by an attempt made by a tramp to assault Mrs. Emma Curds, a highly respected lady. Mrs. Curds is in a critical condition.

A posse was immediately organized and started in pursuit of the villain. He was captured at Budd's brickyard and Constable Becker had all he could do to prevent the frenzied mob from lynching the perpetrator. The fellow had to be removed secretly to save his life.

Hawaii Turned Down Spaulding.

HONOLULU, June 10.—The Hawaiian government has refused to renew the exclusive cable act with Z. S. Spaulding, awarded 18 months ago and expiring May 1. It is now said they will contract with the first company making a legitimate offer.

TWO REPORTS ON RUIZ.

Lee and Congosto Could Not Agree Very Far.

THEY DIFFER ON THE MAIN POINTS

Signed a Joint Report on Unimportant Matters—Then Each Made a Separate Report to His Respective Government. Prolonged Negotiations Probable.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—It is learned that the department of state is in possession of two distinct reports bearing upon the Ruiz case. They were brought to Washington by Mr. Fishback, the secretary to Mr. Calhoun, and handed to Assistant Secretary Day. One of these reports was made by Consul General Lee and has been fully set out in the newspapers. The other report, really the original, was a joint production, signed by Consul General Lee and by Dr. Congosto, the Spanish consul at Philadelphia, who with General Lee constituted a special commission to investigate the conditions surrounding the death of Dr. Ruiz. In this report the two commissioners went as far as they could together, which necessarily confined them to a mere statement of the facts that are not subject to controversy.

Failing to agree upon a statement of the causes which led to Ruiz's death, the commissioners signed the document at this point and then by mutual agreement made what may be described as supplemental reports to their own governments in which they set out statements that they could not agree to include in the original report. The published report of General Lee was one of these supplemental reports and it is probable that the Spanish government has one to controvert it made by Dr. Congosto. With all of this literature on the subject in possession of the two governments the possibilities of prolonged negotiations are promising.

CALHOUN TALKED TO DAY.

Another Conference on the Ruiz Case. Lee Report Admitted Correct.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—Mr. Calhoun has paid another visit to the state department with Mr. Fishback and was in consultation with Assistant Secretary Day. The Lee report on the Ruiz case, which has attracted so much attention, was brought to the department by Mr. Fishback and delivered to Judge Day, who saw the original 24 hours after it had been brought to his attention in the press. The assistant secretary said that he was not prepared to say that the printed publication was inaccurate, which, in diplomatic parlance, is about as far as a state department official can go toward confirming a statement. The report itself was thoroughly discussed by the three officials. All that could be gathered from them as to a future action of the department in the matter was that the matter would be held in abeyance until the return of President McKinley from his Nashville trip.

The department has had to complain and seek reparation in other cases involving the confinement of American citizens in violation of treaty rights. This was true in the case of Scott and of Tolen and although claims for illegal imprisonment were preferred they were pigeonholed and never heard of again. In the case of the Delgadoes, the Spanish government settled the case by the payment of $15,000, which satisfied the individual for the assault upon his person, but there was no record of any apology for the incident. It is evidently the intention of the department, however, not to allow this last case to go the way of its predecessors, but to press it to a conclusion without its being permitted to drop out of sight.

NO DOCTRINAL DISSENSIONS.

Great Peace Among the Lutherans in Session at Mansfield, O.

MANSFIELD, O., June 10.—The thirty-eighth biennial session of the general synod of the Lutheran church is in session in this city. The election of a synodical president is now proceeding. While there is no apparent rivalry the advocates of the different candidates are strongly urging the election of their men. Rev. M. W. Hamma of Altoona, Pa., refused to discuss the probabilities of his election. The strength of the candidacy of Rev. Dr. M. R. Hodges of St. Louis has greatly increased. Secretary Rev. Dr. W. S. Frees of York, Pa., announced by letter that he was not a candidate for re-election, which virtually insures the election of Rev. Dr. W. H. Dunbar of Baltimore, who is so far the only candidate for the office. The work to be done by the synod will simply be routine, there being no doctrinal dissensions throughout the entire church.

Without doubt Louis Mauss of Cincinnati, who has been treasurer for a number of years, will be re-elected.

The meeting last evening was devoted to the opening addresses, Hon. Henry C. Hedges delivered the welcoming address on behalf of the city of Mansfield and S. C. Cummings delivered a similar address on behalf of the Lutherans of the city. President Baughner spoke on behalf of the general synod.

TOWNE PLACED IN CHARGE.

He Will Have Silver Republican Headquarters at Duluth.

CHICAGO, June 10.—The executive committee of the National Silver Republican party has held a session to discuss methods of carrying on the organization. The national committee of the new party did not hold a meeting as intended, but decided to leave the selection of the executive committee to Chairman Towne.

Ex-Senator Fred J. Dubois of Idaho will be chairman of this committee. The others have not yet been selected. National headquarters will be in charge of ex-Congressman Charles A. Towne of Minnesota and for the present will be at Duluth. The committee favored immediate organization for the congressional elections of 1898 and also for the campaign of 1900 and instructed Chairman Towne to push this work as rapidly as possible. Chairman Towne said that the conference was better attended than he expected and that he believed it indicated that the Silver Republicans would hold the balance of power in the congressional and presidential elections.

SHRINERS' GRAND POTENTATE.

McGaffey of Denver Named—Detroit Owned by the Boys.

DETROIT, June 10.—At the final business sessions of the imperial council, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, the council by a unanimous vote decided to hold the 1898 meeting at Dallas, beginning the second Tuesday in June. A proposition is understood to have been made in the council to increase the imperial recorder's salary, but it was finally left at the present figure, $2,000.

New officers were elected as follows: Grand potentate, Albert M. McGaffey, Denver; deputy potentate, Ethelbert F. Allen, Kansas City; chief rabban, John H. Atwood, Leavenworth, Kan.; assistant rabban, Lou B. Winsor, Reed City, Mich.; high priest, Philip C. Shaffer, Philadelphia; oriental guide, Colonel Henry C. Akin, Omaha; recorder, Benjamin W. Rowell, Boston; treasurer, William S. Brown, Pittsburg. All the new officers were installed.

Late hours and excitement appear to have no effect upon the spirits and health of the mass of Shriners. The program has been largely of a go-as-you-please nature.

The big public events of the week were the land and naval parades which took place last night.

REFORMED EPISCOPAL CHURCH.

General Council of the United States and Canada in Session.

NEW YORK, June 10.—The general council of the Reformed Episcopal church of the United States and Canada is in session here. The council holds session three times a day for this week. The first session was purely devotional. There were present Bishops Samuel Fallows and Charles Edward Cheney of Chicago, Bishop P. E. Stevens of South Carolina, Bishop William R. Nicholson of Philadelphia, Bishop T. W. Campbell of Canada and Bishop James Latane of Baltimore.

This is the fifteenth general council of the church and is expected to be one of the most important since the organization of the denomination 24 years ago.

JAPAN LESS BELLIGERENT.

Minister Shimamura Making More Reasonable Proposals to Hawaii.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 10.—Advices have just been received from Honolulu per steamship Australia to the effect that Japanese Minister Shimamura has changed his attitude to some extent since last advices from Honolulu.

Several conferences were held between Ministers Cooper and Shimamura, with the result that the Japanese representative made proposals of a much more reasonable nature than those which he first offered.

Sugar Trust Declares a Dividend.

NEW YORK, June 10.—The directors of the American Sugar Refining company has declared a regular quarterly dividend of 3 per cent on common stock and 1 1/4 on preferred stock.

Supreme Lodge Took a Ride.

MILWAUKEE, June 10.—The supreme lodge of the Ancient Order of United Workmen adjourned for a trolley car ride. The session was devoted chiefly to routine business.

Rain Interrupted at West Point.

WEST POINT, June 10.—On account of a continuous rainfall all the military exercises scheduled, including that of the field day competition, were declared off.

Police Officers Shot.

OMAHA, June 10.—While trying to arrest three burglars Police Officers Tiedemann and Glover were shot, the former perhaps fatally. The burglars escaped.

Hotel Burned by Incendiaries.

MONTROSE, Colo., June 10.—The Montrose hotel and a block of stores have been burned. Robert H. Mead perished. Believed to be incendiary.

An Artist Under Arrest.

NEW YORK, June 10.—Claude D. Farrington, superintendent of the National Academy of Design, has been arrested accused of embezzling over $4,000.

THE SHERIFF'S STORY

McLain Explains About the Urbana Tragedy.

HE TELEGRAPHED GOV. BUSHNELL

But That Gentleman Did Not Think He Had Exhausted All Resources—He Objected to the Colored Company From Springfield.

URBANA, O., June 10.—Sheriff McLain has given his version of what occurred between himself at Urbana and Governor Bushnell at Wooster the night the negro was lynched. The lynching occurred Friday morning. The sheriff says:

"Thursday evening I telegraphed the governor requesting him to send additional troops here. Later in the evening, about 11 o'clock the governor called me up by long-distance telephone. I told him just how matters stood. Then the governor said to me in practically these words 'well I don't think you have exhausted all the resources at your command and until you have I can do nothing for you, I will not send any troops to Urbana for the present.'"

"After the shooting I immediately telegraphed Governor Bushnell. He soon replied that he had ordered Company A of Springfield—the colored company of that city—to come here at once. I immediately communicated with Captain Bradbury of Springfield, to whom Governor Bushnell had sent the order, or had at least been in communication with, not to allow that company to come, as its presence here might precipitate a race war. I told him to bring his own company, which did come later on, and Captain Bradbury reported to me on the arrival of his company here in person."

NOT A QUIET TRIP.

Southerners Insist on Honoring the President Enroute to Nashville.

CLIFTON FORGE, Va., June 10.—Clear skies and growing enthusiasm along the route have marked the progress of the presidential party.

At Charlottesville there was a goodly assemblage of citizens to some of whom was accorded a hearty handshake by the president.

His determination not to speak was broken in a measure at Staunton, where thousands of persons cheered lustily as the special drew into the station. Ex-Congressman Tucker here paid his respects and yielding to entreaties and cheers, Mr. McKinley stepped upon the rear platform, while the Stonewall Jackson band played "Hail to the Chief" and men and boys shouted, while the ladies waved a welcome. Mr. McKinley said:

"Ladies and gentlemen of Staunton, I thank you for the gracious compliment you pay me by this large assemblage. It always affords me great pleasure to wish citizens of every locality and class prosperity and happiness."

The presidential train reached here in two sections, the last few miles being over grades which made the dividing of the train expedient. In accordance with Mr. McKinley's wishes there were no formal receptions.

The route was resumed at 11 a. m. today. Louisville being the next important stop. Mr. McKinley has expressed the wish that his hospitable southern hosts do not add anything to the Nashville program.

Finally Died a Natural Death.

INDIANAPOLIS, June 10.—Mrs. Nancy E. Clem is dead. She was tried five times for murder, sentenced to hang twice and finally escaped on a technicality. Mrs. Clem was finally convicted of perjury and served four years in the state female reformatory. Mrs. Clem was arrested and tried for the murder of Jacob Young and his wife in 1868.

Gold Democratic Convention Called.

LOUISVILLE, June 10.—A call has been issued by the National Democratic (gold) executive committee for a state convention to meet in this city July 14 to nominate a candidate for clerk of the court of appeals, the only state office to be filled at the November elections.

Stopped Quarrel With a Bullet.

ALBANY, Ky., June 10.—Henry Foster and John Shootman, who had long been enemies, quarreled and Foster stabbed Shootman with a dirk. Ephraim Redell went to Shootman's assistance and shot Foster through the heart. Both men were fatally wounded.

New Armor Plant Probable.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 10.—Should the government accept the proposition of the Union Iron works to provide diagonal armor for the battleship Wisconsin, now in course of construction, it is thought an armor plate plant will be established in this city.

German Baptists Meeting.

FREDERICK, Md., June 10.—The session of the German Baptists' annual meeting was attended by 4,000 people. At the regular session a number of queries from the various church districts were discussed and acted upon.

EVENING NEWS REVIEW.

TWELFTH YEAR. NO. 298.

EAST LIVERPOOL, OHIO, THURSDAY, JUNE 10, 1897.

TWO CENTS

WE MAY ADOPT HAWAII.

Administration to Take Up Annexation After the Tariff.

TREATY STILL BOTHERS SENATORS.

The Republican Leaders Will Withdraw Amendments For Additional Taxes on Beer and Tea—Talking of a Bank Check Stamp Tax.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—There are several propositions under consideration by the senate committee on finance on the Hawaiian treaty, as it relates to the sugar schedule, but there is difficulty in agreeing upon any of them. They include the endorsement of the Davis amendment for continuing the present treaty in force without reservation, a suggestion to the president that a new treaty should be negotiated modifying the terms of the existing agreement so as to render them less partial to Hawaii and also a proposition looking to the giving of a year's notice to Hawaii of the abrogation of the present treaty. This latter proposition is understood to originate with Senator Aldrich and is antagonized by the especial champions of Hawaii.

The opinion is freely expressed by senators that the question of annexation will be taken up by the administration as soon as the tariff is passed.

The Republican members of the finance committee will withdraw the amendments for an additional tax on beer and for the duty of 10 cents a pound on tea. In explanation of this a member of the finance committee said that the pressure for the withdrawal of these amendments has been very great and that many Republican senators have made decided stands against them. The formal action of the committee on the subject has not been taken, but the determination has been reached. The members of the committee are still in doubt as to what shall be done with increases on tobacco in the internal revenue part of the bill, but there has been great pressure to have these taxes reduced.

The question of revenue is giving the committee considerable concern, and it there should be a withdrawal of the increases on tobacco, as well as those on beer and tea, the bill would not meet the needs of the government as a revenue producer. For this reason it has been practically determined to make a bank check stamp tax, and the question of additional revenue by means of a system of stamp taxes on beer has been under consideration. The committee is considering these questions and endeavoring to meet them as they proceed.

A DOCTRINAL DISPUTE.

Mills Thinks Democrats Who Voted For Cotton Duty Are Heretics—Rawlins, a Tariff Plank Framer, Think They Held Close to the Faith.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—A period of tariff speeches prevented little progress on the tariff bill in the senate. Mr. Rawlins (Utah) and Mr. Mills (Tex.) discussed the Democratic attitude on the tariff from their respective standpoints. Mr. Rawlins was a member of the platform committee of the Chicago convention and proposed the tariff plank which was adopted. He held that the vote he and several other Democratic senators had cast for duties on cotton and other agricultural products was justified by that platform and by the traditions of the party.

While Mr. Rawlins was talking, Mr. Lindsay (Ky.), platform in hand, interrupted to ask Mr. Rawlins, since he presented the tariff clause, why the good old Democratic word "only" after "tariff for revenue" came to be omitted, was it an intentional omission. Mr. Lindsay asked.

"I think not," responded Mr. Rawlins. "I can throw some light on that subject," said Mr. Tillman, who was also a member of the committee on platform at the Chicago convention. "It was omitted purposely after discussion."

Mr. Mills severely arraigned the bill as a class measure designed to build up a vast fund for distribution among the beneficiaries of the bill and at the expense of the "forgotten man," the taxpayer. He indirectly criticized those Democratic senators who voted for the amendments to the bill putting a tax on cotton and other articles, contending that their course was a radical departure from the tenets of Democracy.

Mr. Cannon (Utah) proposed an amendment placing an export bounty on agricultural products. He spoke for two hours on the need of giving the farmer a share of the benefits of the tariff. Mr. Butler (N. C.) also spoke in favor of giving the farmer equal benefits with other classes under the bill. Only half a page of the bill, covering four brief and comparatively unimportant paragraphs (229 to 233) were disposed of.

SUPPLY OF ARMOR PLATE.

Secretary of the Navy Shows What Each Company Has Furnished.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—The secretary of the navy has sent to the senate, in response to a resolution of inquiry, a statement concerning the cost and quantity of armor plate which has been supplied to the government by the Carnegie and Bethlehem companies since they began the supply.

The statement shows that the Carnegie company has supplied 12,127 tons at prices ranging from $515 to $661 and that the Bethlehem company has supplied 13,302 tons within the same range of prices. Referring to the clause in the senate's resolution asking for information as to "how much financial assistance the government has given the companies," the secretary says that no assistance has been given.

A Tragedy In Washington.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—At 820 Fourteenth street, the home of Cherubino Giuliani, an Italian fruit vender, Tacopo Ferrari, after shooting and stabbing in the neck Mrs. Giuliani, shot himself through the head and died almost instantly. The woman recovered. She had repulsed his attentions.

ANGELL NOT YET ACCEPTED.

Turkey Still Silent and the Sailing Tomorrow Postponed.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—Dr. Angell will be obliged to cancel his engagement to sail for Europe tomorrow. Up to this time the Turkish government has not returned an opinion as to whether the explanations offered as to the record of the minister are satisfactory to it and it is not deemed wise to make an issue by allowing Dr. Angell to proceed to his post at Constantinople until it is known positively that he will be persona grata.

The delay of the Turkish government in passing on Dr. Angell's acceptability is causing some discomfort at the state department, but the officials have not yet changed their belief that in the end the minister will be received.

LEISHMAN GETS THE JOB.

The Pittsburg Ex-Iron Magnate Goes to Switzerland.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—The senate has confirmed the following nominations:

Henry L. Wilson of Washington, minister to Chile; John G. A. Leishman of Pennsylvania, minister to Switzerland; Lawrence Townsend of Pennsylvania, minister to Portugal.

ENDED IN A LIVELY DRAW.

Sharkey Hit a Maher Second and the Police Corralled the Crowd.

NEW YORK, June 10.—Peter Maher and Tom Sharkey fought last night at the Palace Athletic club for a $15,000 purse. Fully 10,000 people saw the bout.

The seventh round was nearly completed when Maher, after getting in some good blows on Sharkey, sent the latter to the floor near the ropes with a left in the wind and a right swing on the jaw. Tom was up again inside of five seconds and rushed into a clinch.

In this clinch Maher kept working his right on the body, and when the gong sounded neither heeded the warning of the timekeeper, but kept on hitting each other. One of Maher's seconds rushed over and grabbed Maher. While he was trying to pull the big fellow away Sharkey swung his right on the seconds' face, dazing him. The din was terrific, but was increased tenfold when Inspector McLaughlin and the police arrested all those concerned in the fight. It was declared a draw.

OHIOANS AFTER A TRAMP.

Another Mob Tried to Lynch the Assailant of a Woman.

BATAVIA, O., June 10.—The quiet little village of Williamsburg has been thrown into a state of excitement by an attempt made by a tramp to assault Mrs. Emma Curds, a highly respected lady. Mrs. Curds is in a critical condition.

TWO REPORTS ON RUIZ.

Lee and Congosto Could Not Agree Very Far.

THEY DIFFER ON THE MAIN POINTS

Signed a Joint Report on Unimportant Matters—Then Each Made a Separate Report to His Respective Government. Prolonged Negotiations Probable.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—It is learned that the department of state is in possession of two distinct reports bearing upon the Ruiz case. They were brought to Washington by Mr. Fishback, the secretary to Mr. Calhoun, and handed to Assistant Secretary Day. One of these reports was made by Consul General Lee and has been fully set out in the newspapers. The other report, really the original, was a joint production, signed by Consul General Lee and by Dr. Congosto, the Spanish consul at Philadelphia, who with General Lee constituted a special commission to investigate the conditions surrounding the death of Dr. Ruiz. In this report the two commissioners went as far as they could together, which necessarily confined them to a mere statement of the facts that are not subject to controversy.

Failing to agree upon a statement of the causes which led to Ruiz's death, the commissioners signed the document at this point and then by mutual agreement made what may be described as supplemental reports to their own governments in which they set out statements that they could not agree to include in the original report. The published report of General Lee was one of these supplemental reports and it is probable that the Spanish government has one to controvert it made by Dr. Congosto. With all of this literature on the subject in possession of the two governments the possibilities of prolonged negotiations are promising.

CALHOUN TALKED TO DAY.

Another Conference on the Ruiz Case. Lee Report Admitted Correct.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—Mr. Calhoun has paid another visit to the state department with Mr. Fishback and was in consultation with Assistant Secretary Day. The Lee report on the Ruiz case, which has attracted so much attention, was brought to the department by Mr. Fishback and delivered to Judge Day, who saw the original 24 hours after it had been brought to his attention in the press. The assistant secretary said that he was not prepared to say that the printed publication was inaccurate, which, in diplomatic parlance, is about as far as a state department official can go toward confirming a statement. The report itself was thoroughly discussed by the three officials. All that could be gathered from them as to a future action of the department in the matter was that the matter would be held in abeyance until the return of President McKinley from his Nashville trip.

The department has had to complain and seek reparation in other cases involving the confinement of American citizens in violation of treaty rights. This was true in the case of Scott and of Tolen and although claims for illegal imprisonment were preferred they were pigeonholed and never heard of again. In the case of the Delgadoes, the Spanish government settled the case by the payment of $15,000, which satisfied the individual for the assault upon his person, but there was no record of any apology for the incident. It is evidently the intention of the department, however, not to allow this last case to go the way of its predecessors, but to press it to a conclusion without its being permitted to drop out of sight.

NO DOCTRINAL DISSENSIONS.

Great Peace Among the Lutherans In Session at Mansfield, O.

MANSFIELD, O., June 10.—The thirty-eighth biennial session of the general synod of the Lutheran church is in session in this city. The election of a synodical president is now proceeding. While there is no apparent rivalry the advocates of the different candidates are strongly urging the election of their men. Rev. M. W. Hamma of Altoona, Pa., refused to discuss the probabilities of his election. The strength of the candidacy of Rev. Dr. M. R. Hodges of St. Louis has greatly increased. Secretary Rev. Dr. W. S. Frees of York, Pa., announced by letter that he was not a candidate for re-election, which virtually insures the election of Rev. Dr. W. H. Dunbar of Baltimore, who is so far the only candidate for the office. The work to be done by the synod will simply be routine, there being no doctrinal dissensions throughout the entire church.

Without doubt Louis Mauss of Cincinnati, who has been treasurer for a number of years, will be re-elected.

The meeting last evening was devoted to the opening addresses, Hon. Henry C. Hedges delivered the welcoming address on behalf of the city of Mansfield and S. C. Cummings delivered a similar address on behalf of the Lutherans of the city. President Maughner spoke on behalf of the general synod.

TOWNE PLACED IN CHARGE.

He Will Have Silver Republican Headquarters at Duluth.

CHICAGO, June 10.—The executive committee of the National Silver Republican party has held a session to discuss methods of carrying on the organization. The national committee of the new party did not hold a meeting as intended, but decided to leave the selection of the executive committee to Chairman Towne.

Ex-Senator Fred J. Dubois of Idaho will be chairman of this committee. The others have not yet been selected. National headquarters will be in charge of ex-Congressman Charles A. Towne of Minnesota and for the present will be at Duluth. The committee favored immediate organization for the congressional elections of 1898 and also for the campaign of 1900 and instructed Chairman Towne to push this work as rapidly as possible. Chairman Towne said that the conference was better attended than he expected and that he believed it indicated that the Silver Republicans would hold the balance of power in the congressional and presidential elections.

SHRINERS' GRAND POTENTATE.

McGaffey of Denver Named—Detroit Owned by the Boys.

DETROIT, June 10.—At the final business sessions of the imperial council, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, the council by a unanimous vote decided to hold the 1898 meeting at Dallas, beginning the second Tuesday in June. A proposition is understood to have been made in the council to increase the imperial recorder's salary, but it was finally left at the present figure, $2,000.

New officers were elected as follows: Grand potentate, Albert M. McGaffey, Denver; deputy potentate, Ethelbert F. Allen, Kansas City; chief rabban, John H. Atwood, Leavenworth, Kan.; assistant rabban, Lou B. Winsor, Reed City, Mich.; high priest, Philip C. Shaffer, Philadelphia; oriental guide, Colonel Henry C. Akin, Omaha; recorder, Benjamin W. Rowell, Boston; treasurer, William S. Brown, Pittsburgh. All the new officers were Pittsburg.

Late hours and excitement appear to have no effect upon the spirits and health of the mass of Shriner. The program has been largely of a go-as-you-please nature.

The big public events of the week were the land and naval parades which took place last night.

REFORMED EPISCOPAL CHURCH.

General Council of the United States and Canada In Session.

NEW YORK, June 10.—The general council of the Reformed Episcopal church of the United States and Canada is in session here. The council holds session three times a day for this week. The first session was purely devotional. There were present Bishops Samuel Fallows and Charles Edward Cheney of Chicago, Bishop P. F. Stevens of South Carolina, Bishop William R. Nicholson of Philadelphia, Bishop T. W. Campbell of Canada and Bishop James Latane of Baltimore.

This is the fifteenth general council of the church and is expected to be one of the most important since the organization of the denomination 24 years ago.

JAPAN LESS BELLIGERENT.

Minister Shimamura Making More Reasonable Proposals to Hawaii.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 10.—Advices have just been received from Honolulu per steamship Australia to the effect that Japanese Minister Shimamura has changed his attitude to some extent since last advices from Honolulu.

Several conferences were held between Ministers Cooper and Shimamura, with the result that the Japanese representative made proposals of a much more reasonable nature than those which he first offered.

Sugar Trust Declares a Dividend.

NEW YORK, June 10.—The directors of the American Sugar Refining company has declared a regular quarterly dividend of 3 per cent on common stock and 1 1/4 on preferred stock.

Supreme Lodge Took a Ride.

MILWAUKEE, June 10.—The supreme lodge of the Ancient Order of United Workmen adjourned for a trolley car ride. The session was devoted chiefly to routine business.

Rain Interrupted at West Point.

WEST POINT, June 10.—On account of a continuous rainfall all the military exercises scheduled, including that of the field day competition, were declared off.

Police Officers Shot.

OMAHA, June 10.—While trying to arrest three burglars Police Officers Tiedemann and Glover were shot, the former perhaps fatally. The burglars escaped.

Hotel Burned by Incendiaries.

MONTROSE, Colo., June 10.—The Montrose hotel and a block of stores have been burned. Robert H. Mead perished. Believed to be incendiary.

An Artist Under Arrest.

NEW YORK, June 10.—Claude D. Farrington, superintendent of the National Academy of Design, has been arrested accused of embezzling over $4,000.

THE SHERIFF'S STORY

McLain Explains About the Urbana Tragedy.

HE TELEGRAPHED GOV. BUSHNELL

But That Gentleman Did Not Think He Had Exhausted All Resources—He Objected to the Colored Company From Springfield.

URBANA, O., June 10.—Sheriff McLain has given his version of what occurred between himself at Urbana and Governor Bushnell at Wooster the night the negro was lynched. The lynching occurred Friday morning. The sheriff says:

"Thursday evening I telegraphed the governor requesting him to send additional troops here. Later in the evening, about 11 o'clock the governor called me up by long-distance telephone. I told him just how matters stood. Then the governor said to me in practically these words 'well I don't think you have exhausted all the resources at your command and until you have I can do nothing for you, I will not send any troops to Urbana for the present.'"

"After the shooting I immediately telegraphed Governor Bushnell. He soon replied that he had ordered Company A of Springfield—the colored company of that city—to come here at once. I immediately communicated with Captain Bradbury of Springfield, to whom Governor Bushnell had sent the order, or had at least been in communication with, not to allow that company to come, as its presence here might precipitate a race war. I told him to bring his own company, which did come later on, and Captain Bradbury reported to me on the arrival of his company here in person."

NOT A QUIET TRIP.

Southerners Insist on Honoring the President Enroute to Nashville.

CLIFTON FORGE, Va., June 10.—Clear skies and growing enthusiasm along the route have marked the progress of the presidential party.

At Charlottesville there was a goodly assemblage of citizens to some of whom was accorded a hearty handshake by the president.

His determination not to speak was broken in a measure at Staunton, where thousands of persons cheered lustily as the special drew into the station. Ex-Congressman Tucker here paid his respects and yielding to entreaties and cheers, Mr. McKinley stepped upon the rear platform, while the Stonewall Jackson band played "Hail to the Chief" and men and boys shouted, while the ladies waved a welcome. Mr. McKinley said:

"Ladies and gentlemen of Staunton, I thank you for the gracious compliment you pay me by this large assemblage. It always affords me great pleasure to wish citizens of every locality and class prosperity and happiness."

The presidential train reached here in two sections, the last few miles being over grades which made the dividing of the train expedient. In accordance with Mr. McKinley's wishes there were no formal receptions.

The route was resumed at 11 a. m. today. Louisville being the next important stop. Mr. McKinley has expressed the wish that his hospitable southern hosts do not add anything to the Nashville program.

Finally Died a Natural Death.

INDIANAPOLIS, June 10.—Mrs. Nancy E. Clem is dead. She was tried five times for murder, sentenced to hang twice and finally escaped on a technicality. Mrs. Clem was finally convicted of perjury and served four years in the state female reformatory. Mrs. Clem was arrested and tried for the murder of Jacob Young and his wife in 1863.

Gold Democratic Convention Called.

LOUISVILLE, June 10.—A call has been issued by the National Democratic (gold) executive committee for a state convention to meet in this city July 14 to nominate a candidate for clerk of the court of appeals, the only state office to be filled at the November elections.

Stopped Quarrel With a Bullet.

ALBANY, Ky., June 10.—Henry Foster and John Shootman, who had long been enemies, quarreled and Foster stabbed Shootman with a dirk. Ephraim Redell went to Shootman's assistance and shot Foster through the heart. Both men were fatally wounded.

New Armor Plant Probable.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 10.—Should the government accept the proposition of the Union Iron works to provide diagonal armor for the battleship Wisconsin, now in course of construction, it is thought an armor plate plant will be established in this city.

German Baptists Meeting.

FREDERICK, Md., June 10.—The session of the German Baptists' annual meeting was attended by 4,000 people. At the regular session a number of queries from the various church districts were discussed and acted upon.

WOULD BE A COLONEL

An Akron Man Has Designs on the Eighth.

COLONEL GYGER NOT A CANDIDATE

The Movement Was Started Decoration Day, and Paul E. Werner Is Said to Have the Support of a Number of Officers—The Choice to Be Made Next Spring.

It will interest the soldiers of Company E to know that a candidate for colonel has already appeared, and that Colonel Gyger will not ask his officers and men for another term. The news is sent out from Akron in the following carefully worded article:

"It is no secret in military circles that Paul E. Werner can be the next colonel of the Eighth regiment, O. N. G., if he desires to accept the position. Although Mr. Werner is in no sense a candidate for the election, it is understood that the honor will be tendered him with the urgent entreaty that he accept. So far as known, the matter was first spoken of Memorial day, when the entire Eighth regiment was in Akron. It was again brought up at a meeting of regimental and company officers at Wooster, Thursday, and met with the approbation of all present. The enlisted men are also willing to give Mr. Werner their enthusiastic and united support, and unless he should positively refuse to allow his name to be presented it is believed that he will be elected unanimously. The commission of Colonel Gyger, of Alliance, the present commander, will expire next spring, and he has announced that he will not be a candidate for re-election."

A COWARDLY ACT.

A Wouldbe Reporter Uses His Paper to Vent Petty Spite.

EDITOR NEWS REVIEW—On Thursday evening, June 3, there appeared an article in the Daily Crisis headed "His Deadly Purpose." In the article mentioned, the wouldbe newspaper man vented his petty spite against me by describing me as a wife deserter, a wouldbe suicide and a drunkard, asserting that I was unfaithful to my wife and engaged in "lavishing my affections on another." He further states that I was only restrained from suicide by the interposition of my "illicit companion." Had the fool reporter had sense enough to keep his tongue from wagging, I would not have known that he referred to myself. But, like unto his proper companion, Baalam's steed, he has been braying about the street corners, and finally made a confident of one of my personal friends, stating that he had written the article in question, and that he referred to me. I therefore take pleasure in branding him as an unmitigated falsifier, a coward and sneak, and shall compel him to eat his words, without salt, if he dares to make mention of me in any manner, either through the estimable sheet he represents or by word of mouth.

JUSTICE.

NOT A GOOD WEEK.

The Crops Are Not What They Should Be.

The weekly crop bulletin says that the week was not what it should have been. The temperature was too low, keeping the ground too cold for the proper growth of any kind of vegetation. The adverse effects were especially marked with reference to corn. Much of it has rotted before sprouting. Oats are short, and not up to the average for this time of year. Strawberries are abundant and ripening. In some localities locusts are appearing in large quantities.

WILL DECIDE ON SATURDAY

Whether Stewart Can Be Brought to Ohio.

The criminal court judges of Pittsburg have taken under advisement the request of Prosecutor Speaker that Chick Stewart be taken to Lisbon to testify in the Robison case, and will give out their decision next Saturday. Stewart was jailed on a charge of forgery. Of this he was acquitted, but ordered to pay the costs. It is believed he will be sent to Lisbon.

ELEGANT WASH GOODS.

They Are Very Handsome This Season.

The ladies declare that the wash goods fabrics are exceptionally beautiful and desirable this season, and that the styles and patterns far surpass those of past seasons. A visit to the fine establishment of D. M. OGILVIE & Co. will demonstrate this statement to be a fact, while the reasonable prices cannot fail in delighting the fair sex.

LIKE A VOLCANIC BUBBLE.

Extraordinary Freak of Nature Near the Mexican City of Puebla.

The Rev. F. S. Bortan of Puebla writes as follows: "It may be of interest to some of the readers of The Herald who visit Puebla to know of one of the less visited attractions in the vicinity of the City of the Angels. I refer to the 'coxcomate.' It is about 20 minutes' distance from Puebla over the street car line to Cholula. Any street car conductor can point it out to the curiosity seeker. It is to the right of the car line, about 500 yards distant.

"It looks from the car window to be a pile of white stones or a well bleached haystack, but upon closer inspection proves to be a tumulus of white calcareous stone, evidently of water formation, about 50 feet in height and 100 feet in diameter at the base. The form is that of a truncated cone. At the apex is an elliptical shaped opening about 25 feet along the minor and 50 feet along the major axis. It is a bell shaped cavity and lined with ferns of various descriptions. I should judge the depth to be at least 100 feet, and at the bottom, so far as is visible, the opening must be 60 feet in diameter. In the bottom, on one side, are to be seen some gorgeous ferns, and on the other side a pool of water.

"Tradition says that the ancient Aztecs were accustomed to worship here the genius of the spot, and occasionally threw in a live victim to appease his subterranean majesty. It is also said that a few victims of the inquisition were thrown down here to reflect upon the controverted points of doctrine. At all events, it is a most singular freak of nature, as it is in the middle of a level plain, or rather a barley field. It looks to have been some volcanic bubble, of which the great Mexican upland is so full, and is well worth a visit on the part of the curious.

"Although I have inquired among my Mexican friends, I have found no one who could tell me the meaning of the name 'coxcomate.'"—Mexican Herald.

AN OLD SALT'S BLUNDER.

He Suffered by Taking Too Much For Granted.

"Experience," said the man who had been telling tales of the sea, "is a great thing. But it gets in the way sometimes. I'll never forget the last shipwreck I was in."

"It must be terrible," said the boy whom he was entertaining, "to be adrift on the ocean."

"It is rather trying to realize that land is miles away, no matter whether you measure sideways or straight down. But this shipwreck wasn't on the ocean."

"But you said you had sailed the Atlantic?"

"Yes. That's where I got my experience. But it was on Lake Superior that I found myself with nothing to tie to except an old washstand. It was three days before I was picked up."

"Weren't you almost dead?"

"Pretty near."

"From hunger?"

"Partly that, and I suffered some from thirst. But the most of it was humiliation. The first thing I asked for was a drink of water. I had suffered agonies. My throat was parched and my tongue felt like a herring. One of the men in the boat looked at me as if he thought I was delirious, but when I repeated my request he took a tin can, leaned over the side of the boat and dipped me up a drink. Then I realized for the first time that I was on fresh water instead of salt and that there wasn't the least excuse for a sane man's going thirsty a minute. Experience is a great thing, my boy. Never turn up your nose at it. But remember that it is as likely as not to run you into trouble if you haven't common sense as a compass to steer by."—Washington Star.

The Bishop Apologized.

Dr. Temple was wont to rule the diocese of Exeter with an iron hand, and a tale is told of a deanery meeting at which he presided, when the subject for discussion was "The Hindrances to the Spiritual Life of the Diocese." After the discussion had proceeded for some time a vicar electrified his audience by declaring that the greatest hindrance to the full spiritual life was none other than the bishop himself. "I repeat it," said the speaker calmly, "our right reverend father in God is very far from being a father to any of us. Your manner toward us," he continued, turning to the bishop, "is harsh in the extreme, while your method of rule is this: You treat us all, old and young, as if we were a set of schoolboys." This bold statement drew from the bishop an apology, and he explained that beneath his brusqueness of manner was a very genuine sympathy with the work of all the clergy. This impeachment created the more sensation in the meeting because it came from a son of Dr. Temple's predecessor, the famous Henry of Exeter.—Westminster Gazette.

Came Near It.

A certain teacher of a class in a mission Sunday school has a difficult task imparting scraps of religious instruction to her young charges, and often amusing answers are unconsciously returned to questions which she asks. On one occasion she asked her pupils:

"What do the high priests do?"

She received this reply:

"They burned insects before the people."—London Figaro.

IS IT THE PAPER AGE?

SINCE PULP CAME INTO USE THERE HAVE BEEN MANY CHANGES.

Paper Is Taking the Place of Wood, Stone and Iron—It Is Now Made Absolutely Fireproof—Shirt Bosoms That Don't Have to Be Washed.

Without steam and railways modern society would undoubtedly exist. But what a state of intellectual darkness would be that of civilized mankind without paper and the secret of its manufacture! For many years the rag met all demands of the paper industry. The increasing diversity of uses to which paper and paper pulp have been put in the last decade have made it necessary for manufacturers to cast about for more effective elementary substances. Boots, money, boats, gas pipes, impermeable casks, toys, bottles, pipes, floors, doors, ceilings, architectural ornaments, roofing, chimneys and even complete fireproof houses are now made of paper. Many claim that it will eventually supplant wood, for it will neither crack nor warp. It can be triturated, put under great pressure and subjected to certain chemical treatment and will then take a high polish and will resist the effects of fire better than any other material known. Paper is gradually supplanting metal in certain lines. Locomotive wheels have been made of it for several years, and even rails for railroads. The next progressive step will be to use it for the manufacture of ordnance, which is not by any means a remote possibility. Paper has largely taken the place of linen. We have paper collars and cuffs and blankets. An ingenious inventor has devised paper shirt bosoms, which can be torn off like the pages from a calendar, thus enabling the wearer to have a clean shirt front as often as he desires. It is only a matter of time before cloths, dressing gowns and entire suits of clothes will be made from paper. The soldiers of the Japanese army wore paper trousers and jerseys during their famous winter campaign.

Wood pulp is the most effective substitute for rags in the manufacture of paper. Nearly every species of wood can be used. Some kinds yield more than others. More pulp can be got from willow and chestnut than from walnut. Different woods give various qualities and effects. Aspen will yield a very white paper, but defective in solidity, and is therefore mixed with fir. This latter wood is most generally used. It was first imported from the Black forest, in Germany. The chief supply is now obtained in Norway and Finland, in the form of planks or poles, never exceeding 3 feet 7 or 8 inches.

For the last half century the world's production of paper has increased tenfold. In 1850 it was 231,000 metric tons. The latest recent estimate was 2,000,000 metric tons. The European manufacturers are suffering from a glut in production. The price of paper has fallen one-third, while wages have doubled. The European plants are not so progressive as those in this country. They depend too much upon manual labor. In the United States the manufacturers have substituted machinery for hand work, and as a result of the decrease in the number of their employees are enabled to pay high wages.

Attention has recently been called to the utility of a little known species of paper called the boabab, or Ansonia. It is made from the wood of the boabab tree, which is a native of west Africa, and is known there as the "monkey bread tree." It is found in Abyssinia, Senegal and south of Coyo river. It is of low growth and has a very thick trunk. While it rarely attains a height of 25 feet, the trunk is usually 20 to 25 feet in diameter. The branches are pendulous and bear an edible fruit. The inner bark of this tree is very fibrous. It is used for making superior wrapper papers, which have great tenacity. When the inner bark is stripped from the tree, a fresh growth supplants that taken away, and in a couple of years the tree is again in normal condition. The bark is peeled off but once in four years.

The latest addition to the paper industry is a sanitary note paper which is claimed to be germproof. It has long been known that letters frequently spread infectious diseases by means of the germs that contaminate the paper. An English firm has produced a paper which is impregnated with an antiseptic substance which kills all germs that may come in contact with the paper. If this paper proves to be what the proprietors claim, it is certainly a meritorious invention and will become generally used by hospitals and during the rage of future epidemics.

Chinese and Japanese papers have long been noted for their quality. It has recently been ascertained, however, that even finer grades are produced in Korea. One eminent authority states that "the Korean paper excels the very best that is made in China and Japan." It is manufactured entirely by manual labor. No machinery whatever is employed. For the better grades the bark of the Broussonetia papyrifera is used. This is gathered in the spring of the year. It is placed in water, mixed with wood ashes and is then beaten until it is reduced to a thick pulp, which is dipped out in good sized ladles and spread out in thin sheets upon bamboo frames. A different grade of paper is made from fragments of bark, which are trodden under foot in a manner similar to that employed in the grape presses in some countries. This process of making the pulp is very tedious, but it possesses the great merit of preserving the fibers intact and not breaking them, as is done when machinery is used. The pulp is then metamorphosed into paper, and the sheets are stacked up in piles six feet high and cut into pieces. Then the piles of paper are compressed by the stamping of feet. The roots and seeds of a plant called tackpaul are added to the pulp when a grade possessing greater tenacity and toughness is desired.—Philadelphia Record.

OXYGEN AS A HEALER.

A Record of Several Valuable English Experiments.

During the Zulu war Dr. George Stoker, who served during the campaign as an army surgeon, had an opportunity of observing the method in which the natives treated their wounded comrades. He noticed that they carried them to the highest point attainable, and there exposed the wounds to the purest air and the action of pure water. This simple remedy was swift and sure, the worst cases yielding rapidly under its influence, doubtless the healthy state of the blood and the abstemious lives led by the natives having a good deal to do with the matter. Dr. Stoker was led to believe that the oxygen cure might be applied to ulcers, burns and wounds of a similar nature, and on his return to this country he made several experiments on such cases, and the more he saw of it the firmer was his belief in his discovery. Bacteria consist of two kinds—the harmful micro-organisms and those necessary to the system, in order that the mechanism of the body may be carried on satisfactorily. Before the discovery of antiseptic surgery the risk which was run wherever a raw surface was exposed to the air was enormous, but with the introduction of antiseptics into the treatment the danger was reduced to a minimum. Iodoform has always been the special medium for use in the case of ulcers, and it is not a pleasant one, but it tended to hold the bacteria at bay. Now, however, it has been noticed that in cases where oxygen has been applied and where the wound is healing the progress was marked by the presence of common organisms and that if a relapse occurred the bacteria disappeared, so that one is led to the conclusion that a certain number of these living organisms are necessary in the formation of new and healthy flesh.

It was decided to enter upon a wider field of operations and test this experiment further—for it must be borne in mind that as yet it is only an experiment—and accordingly a committee of ladies and gentlemen, under the presidency of Baroness Burdett-Coutts, undertook to establish a hospital at 35 St. George's square, S. W. The hospital is small, but if funds were forthcoming a larger house could be secured. The oxygen used is said to be first generated in an iron funnel, and thence it is pumped into india rubber bags, according to the strength required. The part affected is then inclosed in a wooden box with a glass lid and cased round with oilskin. A tube communicates with the box and the bag, and in this way the oxygen is introduced into the box. Other apparatuses are contrived for the back, head and other parts of the body. The first effect is the cessation of pain, and the healing properties are quickly discerned. One case of an ulcer of 40 years' standing had yielded to the treatment in three weeks, another of 18 years in an equally short time, and many others had a similar tale to tell. Not one of the least of the virtues of the oxygen is its deodorizing power. It has also been tried on cases of baldness, with the result that the hair grew rapidly and in a short time was in a normal condition. To what length the curative properties of oxygen may be carried remains to be proved, but it has at least one advantage, that of extreme economy, for, beyond the cost of the oxygen, which, it is said, comes to about 2½ pence for 24 hours, there is no expense for dressings or medicines.—British Sanitary Record.

Her Idea of Humor.

How delightful they are, those people who don't understand a joke, to whom the point in an anecdote is a delusion and a snare!

Miss P. is a clever woman and an excellent teacher. But the solid sciences are more in her particular line than anything which savors of the article called fancy.

Some years ago one of the children's magazines printed an amusing little jingle about a young lady at an archery party who became so alarmed at the promiscuous flight of the arrows that, in order to be perfectly safe from harm, she seated herself directly in front of the target.

Some days ago Miss P. was reading aloud from a bound volume of the magazine to some of her younger pupils. She read this jingle and coughed over it till tears came.

"Well, well, well!" said dear Miss P. "How true to life that is! I know hundreds of young people who are just foolish enough to bring their stools and sit down in that very spot."—Philadelphia Press.

Death of Prof. Clark.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., June 10.—Prof. Alvin G. Clark, the famous telescope lens manufacturer, has died at his home here of apoplexy.

A young woman about to be presented at court receives the fullest instructions as to her behavior. She is told how to dress; how to manage her train; how to courtesy correctly. Every incident is carefully rehearsed so that she may commit no blunder in the presence of royalty. If all this trouble is worth while for the satisfaction of one brief moment, how infinitely more important it is that a young girl about to enter into the sacred precincts of womanhood, should be properly instructed in all that concerns a life-time of possible happiness, or possible misery.

Every mother ought to see to it that her daughters are healthy and strong in a womanly way. She ought to make them aware that any neglect or irregularity of the special functions of womanhood may result in life-long weakness and disease.

Any mother or daughter may write concerning these delicate ailments, with the utmost confidence to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Chief Consulting Physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo, N. Y. Her letter will be answered free of charge with suggestions for self-treatment at home, by which these complaints may be overcome without need of mortifying examinations.

Dr. Pierce has had over thirty years' experience in the treatment of women's diseases, and is an eminent specialist in this particular field of practice. His "Favorite Prescription" cures completely and permanently the most obstinate cases of feminine weakness and disease. It heals all inflamed conditions, strengthens and tones the nerves, and the entire womanly organism.

For prospective mothers and nursing mothers, the "Favorite Prescription" is a perfect strength sustainer.

THE GLAD HAND.

East Liverpool Extends a Hearty Welcome—Our Citizens Show Appreciation in Public Utterances.

Lack of appreciation is not a failing of our citizens, and the advent of the "little conqueror" was received with the same display of enthusiasm that has spread all over the Union. Coming like a ray of sunshine to every household, raising burdens that many backs have borne for years, is enough to awaken the public to praise the like of which has never before been heard in this locality. From every ward, from every street come the same report. Failure is an unknown quantity as far as the "little conqueror" is concerned, and success follows every footstep. Right here at home the triumphs have been many and have set our people talking about the wondrous workings. The following case in point should interest every reader, and it is only one among thousands:

Mr. W. F. Cochran, of Mulberry street, East End, says: "At intervals for thirty years I have had serious kidney and bladder trouble. I have suffered with all the various symptoms in their worst form. The agony I have gone through can hardly be described. Many nights I have rolled from one side to the other trying to find an easy position for my back. I could not move without having sharp twinges of pain and I was also troubled with a urinary difficulty, the secretions being very irregular and at times distressing. I have been run down that I could hardly help myself. Doctors have treated me and I have taken a power of stuff. I had given up all hope of being cured, having suffered so long and not finding anything that would give me relief more than a few days. When I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised as a never failing remedy, I got a box at the W. and W. Pharmacy. After taking half of it I could see some improvement. I continued to improve from that time on. Doan's Kidney Pills have done me more good than anything I have yet taken and I am quite free in expressing my opinion of them by saying that they are a good remedy for all kidney and bladder trouble."

Doan's Kidney Pills are for sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents, or mailed by Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Had the fool reporter had sense enough to keep his tongue from wagging, I would not have known that he referred to myself. But, like unto his proper companion, Baalam's steed, he has been braying about the street corners, and finally made a confident of one of my personal friends, stating that he had written the article in question, and that he referred to me. I therefore take pleasure in branding him as an unmitigated falsifier, a coward and sneak, and shall compel him to eat his words, without salt, if he dares to make mention of me in any manner, either through the estimable sheet he represents or by word of mouth.

JUSTICE.

NOT A GOOD WEEK.

The Crops Are Not What They Should Be.

The weekly crop bulletin says that the week was not what it should have been. The temperature was too low, keeping the ground too cold for the proper growth of any kind of vegetation. The adverse effects were especially marked with reference to corn. Much of it has rotted before sprouting. Oats are short, and not up to the average for this time of year. Strawberries are abundant and ripening. In some localities locusts are appearing in large quantities.

WILL DECIDE ON SATURDAY

Whether Stewart Can Be Brought to Ohio.

The criminal court judges of Pittsburg have taken under advisement the request of Prosecutor Speaker that Chick Stewart be taken to Lisbon to testify in the Robison case, and will give out their decision next Saturday. Stewart was jailed on a charge of forgery. Of this he was acquitted, but ordered to pay the costs. It is believed he will be sent to Lisbon.

ELEGANT WASH GOODS.

They Are Very Handsome This Season.

The ladies declare that the wash goods fabrics are exceptionally beautiful and desirable this season, and that the styles and patterns far surpass those of past seasons. A visit to the fine establishment of D. M. OGILVIE & Co. will demonstrate this statement to be a fact, while the reasonable prices cannot fail in delighting the fair sex. *

LIKE A VOLCANIC BUBBLE.

Extraordinary Freak of Nature Near the Mexican City of Puebla.

The Rev. F. S. Bortain of Puebla writes as follows: "It may be of interest to some of the readers of The Herald who visit Puebla to know of one of the less visited attractions in the vicinity of the City of the Angels. I refer to the 'coxcomate.' It is about 20 minutes' distance from Puebla over the street car line to Cholula. Any street car conductor can point it out to the curiosity seeker. It is to the right of the car line, about 500 yards distant.

"It looks from the car window to be a pile of white stones or a well bleached haystack, but upon closer inspection proves to be a tumulus of white calcareous stone, evidently of water formation, about 50 feet in height and 100 feet in diameter at the base. The form is that of a truncated cone. At the apex is an elliptical shaped opening about 25 feet along the minor and 50 feet along the major axis. It is a bell shaped cavity and lined with ferns of various descriptions. I should judge the depth to be at least 100 feet, and at the bottom, so far as is visible, the opening must be 60 feet in diameter. In the bottom, on one side, are to be seen some gorgeous ferns, and on the other side a pool of water.

"Tradition says that the ancient Aztecs were accustomed to worship here the genius of the spot, and occasionally threw in a live victim to appease his subterranean majesty. It is also said that a few victims of the inquisition were thrown down here to reflect upon the controverted points of doctrine. At all events, it is a most singular freak of nature, as it is in the middle of a level plain, or rather a barley field. It looks to have been some volcanic bubble, of which the great Mexican upland is so full, and is well worth a visit on the part of the curious.

"Although I have inquired among my Mexican friends, I have found no one who could tell me the meaning of the name 'coxcomate.'"—Mexican Herald.

AN OLD SALT'S BLUNDER.

He Suffered by Taking Too Much For Granted.

"Experience," said the man who had been telling tales of the sea, "is a great thing. But it gets in the way sometimes. I'll never forget the last shipwreck I was in."

"It must be terrible," said the boy whom he was entertaining, "to be adrift on the ocean."

"It is rather trying to realize that land is miles away, no matter whether you measure sidewise or straight down. But this shipwreck wasn't on the ocean."

"But you said you had sailed the Atlantic?"

"Yes. That's where I got my experience. But it was on Lake Superior that I found myself with nothing to tie to except an old washstand. It was three days before I was picked up."

"Weren't you almost dead?"

"Pretty near."

"From hunger?"

"Partly that, and I suffered some from thirst. But the most of it was humiliation. The first thing I asked for was a drink of water. I had suffered agonies. My throat was parched and my tongue felt like a herring. One of the men in the boat looked at me as if he thought I was delicious, but when I repeated my request he took a tin can, leaned over the side of the boat and dipped me up a drink. Then I realized for the first time that I was on fresh water instead of salt and that there wasn't the least excuse for a sane man's going thirsty a minute. Experience is a great thing, my boy. Never turn up your nose at it. But remember that it is as likely as not to run you into trouble if you haven't common sense as a compass to steer by."—Washington Star.

The Bishop Apologized.

Dr. Temple was wont to rule the diocese of Exeter with an iron hand, and a tale is told of a deanery meeting at which he presided, when the subject for discussion was "The Hindrances to the Spiritual Life of the Diocese." After the discussion had proceeded for some time a vicar electrified his audience by declaring that the greatest hindrance to the full spiritual life was none other than the bishop himself. "I repeat it," said the speaker calmly, "our right reverend father in God is very far from being a father to any of us. Your manner toward us," he continued, turning to the bishop, "is harsh in the extreme, while your method of rule is this: You treat us all, old and young, as if we were a set of schoolboys." This bold statement drew from the bishop an apology, and he explained that beneath his brusqueness of manner was a very genuine sympathy with the work of all the clergy. This impeachment created the more sensation in the meeting because it came from a son of Dr. Temple's predecessor, the famous Henry of Exeter.—Westminster Gazette.

Came Near It.

A certain teacher of a class in a mission Sunday school has a difficult task imparting scraps of religious instruction to her young charges, and often amusing answers are unconsciously returned to questions which she asks. On one occasion she asked her pupils:

"What do the high priests do?"

She received this reply:

"They burned insects before the people."—London Figaro.

IS IT THE PAPER AGE?

SINCE PULP CAME INTO USE THERE HAVE BEEN MANY CHANGES.

Paper Is Taking the Place of Wood, Stone and Iron—It Is Now Made Absolutely Fireproof—Shirt Bosoms That Don't Have to Be Washed.

Without steam and railways modern society would undoubtedly exist. But what a state of intellectual darkness would be that of civilized mankind without paper and the secret of its manufacture! For many years the rag met all demands of the paper industry. The increasing diversity of uses to which paper and paper pulp have been put in the last decade have made it necessary for manufacturers to cast about for more effective elementary substances. Boots, money, boats, gas pipes, impermeable casks, toys, bottles, pipes, floors, doors, ceilings, architectural ornaments, roofing, chimneys and even complete fireproof houses are now made of paper. Many claim that it will eventually supplant wood, for it will neither crack nor warp. It can be triturated, put under great pressure and subjected to certain chemical treatment and will then take a high polish and will resist the effects of fire better than any other material known. Paper is gradually supplanting metal in certain lines. Locomotive wheels have been made of it for several years, and even rails for railroads. The next progressive step will be to use it for the manufacture of ordnance, which is not by any means a remote possibility. Paper has largely taken the place of linen. We have paper collars and cuffs and blankets. An ingenious inventor has devised paper shirt bosoms, which can be torn off like the pages from a calendar, thus enabling the wearer to have a clean shirt front as often as he desires. It is only a matter of time before cloths, dressing gowns and entire suits of clothes will be made from paper. The soldiers of the Japanese army wore paper trousers and jerseys during their famous winter campaign.

Wood pulp is the most effective substitute for rags in the manufacture of paper. Nearly every species of wood can be used. Some kinds yield more than others. More pulp can be got from willow and chestnut than from walnut. Different woods give various qualities and effects. Aspen will yield a very white paper, but defective in solidity, and is therefore mixed with fir. This latter wood is most generally used. It was first imported from the Black forest, in Germany. The chief supply is now obtained in Norway and Finland, in the form of planks or poles, never exceeding 3 feet 7 or 8 inches.

For the last half century the world's production of paper has increased tenfold. In 1850 it was 231,000 metric tons. The latest recent estimate was 2,000,000 metric tons. The European manufacturers are suffering from a glut in production. The price of paper has fallen one-third, while wages have doubled. The European plants are not so progressive as those in this country. They depend too much upon manual labor. In the United States the manufacturers have substituted machinery for hand work, and as a result of the decrease in the number of their employees are enabled to pay high wages.

Attention has recently been called to the utility of a little known species of paper called the boabab, or Ansonia. It is made from the wood of the boabab tree, which is a native of west Africa, and is known there as the "monkey bread tree." It is found in Abyssinia, Senegal and south of Coyo river. It is of low growth and has a very thick trunk. While it rarely attains a height of 25 feet, the trunk is usually 20 to 25 feet in diameter. The branches are pendulous and bear an edible fruit. The inner bark of this tree is very fibrous. It is used for making superior wrapper papers, which have great tenacity. When the inner bark is stripped from the tree, a fresh growth supplants that taken away, and in a couple of years the tree is again in normal condition. The bark is peeled off but once in four years.

The latest addition to the paper industry is a sanitary note paper which is claimed to be germproof. It has long been known that letters frequently spread infectious diseases by means of the germs that contaminate the paper. An English firm has produced a paper which is impregnated with an antiseptic substance which kills all germs that may come in contact with the paper. If this paper proves to be what the proprietors claim, it is certainly a meritorious invention and will become generally used by hospitals and during the rage of future epidemics.

Chinese and Japanese papers have long been noted for their quality. It has recently been ascertained, however, that even finer grades are produced in Korea. One eminent authority states that "the Korean paper excels the very best that is made in China and Japan." It is manufactured entirely by manual labor. No machinery whatever is employed. For the better grades the bark of the Broussonetia papyrifera is used. This is gathered in the spring of the year. It is placed in water, mixed with wood ashes and is then beaten until it is reduced to a thick pulp, which is dipped out in good sized ladles and spread out in thin sheets upon bamboo frames. A different grade of paper is made from fragments of bark, which are trodden under foot in a manner similar to that employed in the grape presses in some countries. This process of making the pulp is very tedious, but it possesses the great merit of preserving the fibers intact and not breaking them, as is done when machinery is used. The pulp is then metamorphosed into paper, and the sheets are stacked up in piles six feet high and cut into pieces. Then the piles of paper are compressed by the stamping of feet. The roots and seeds of a plant called tackpaul are added to the pulp when a grade possessing greater tenacity and toughness is desired.—Philadelphia Record.

OXYGEN AS A HEALER.

A Record of Several Valuable English Experiments.

During the Zulu war Dr. George Stoker, who served during the campaign as an army surgeon, had an opportunity of observing the method in which the natives treated their wounded comrades. He noticed that they carried them to the highest point attainable, and there exposed the wounds to the purest air and the action of pure water. This simple remedy was swift and sure, the worst cases yielding rapidly under its influence, doubtless the healthy state of the blood and the abstemious lives led by the natives having a good deal to do with the matter. Dr. Stoker was led to believe that the oxygen cure might be applied to ulcers, burns and wounds of a similar nature, and on his return to this country he made several experiments on such cases, and the more he saw of it the firmer was his belief in his discovery. Bacteria consist of two kinds—the harmful micro-organisms and those necessary to the system, in order that the mechanism of the body may be carried on satisfactorily. Before the discovery of antiseptic surgery the risk which was run wherever a raw surface was exposed to the air was enormous, but with the introduction of antiseptics into the treatment the danger was reduced to a minimum. Iodoform has always been the special medium for use in the case of ulcers, and it is not a pleasant one, but it tended to hold the bacteria at bay. Now, however, it has been noticed that in cases where oxygen has been applied and where the wound is healing the progress was marked by the presence of common organisms and that if a relapse occurred the bacteria disappeared, so that one is led to the conclusion that a certain number of these living organisms are necessary in the formation of new and healthy flesh.

It was decided to enter upon a wider field of operations and test this experiment further—for it must be borne in mind that as yet it is only an experiment—and accordingly a committee of ladies and gentlemen, under the presidency of Baroness Burdett-Coutts, undertook to establish a hospital at 35 St. George's square, S. W. The hospital is small, but if funds were forthcoming a larger house could be secured. The oxygen used is said to be first generated in an iron funnel, and thence it is pumped into india rubber bags, according to the strength required. The part affected is then inclosed in a wooden box with a glass lid and cased round with oilskin. A tube communicates with the box and the bag, and in this way the oxygen is introduced into the box. Other apparatuses are contrived for the back, head and other parts of the body. The first effect is the cessation of pain, and the healing properties are quickly discerned. One case of an ulcer of 40 years' standing had yielded to the treatment in three weeks, another of 18 years in an equally short time, and many others had a similar tale to tell. Not one of the least of the virtues of the oxygen is its deodorizing power. It has also been tried on cases of baldness, with the result that the hair grew rapidly and in a short time was in a normal condition. To what length the curative properties of oxygen may be carried remains to be proved, but it has at least one advantage, that of extreme economy, for, beyond the cost of the oxygen, which, it is said, comes to about 2½ pence for 24 hours, there is no expense for dressings or medicines.—British Sanitary Record.

Her Idea of Humor.

How delightful they are, those people who don't understand a joke, to whom the point in an anecdote is a delusion and a snare!

Miss P. is a clever woman and an excellent teacher. But the solid sciences are more in her particular line than anything which savors of the article called fancy.

Some years ago one of the children's magazines printed an amusing little jingle about a young lady at an archery party who became so alarmed at the promiscuous flight of the arrows that, in order to be perfectly safe from harm, she seated herself directly in front of the target.

Some days ago Miss P. was reading aloud from a bound volume of the magazine to some of her younger pupils. She read this jingle and coughed over it till tears came.

"Well, well, well!" said dear Miss P. "How true to life that is! I know hundreds of young people who are just foolish enough to bring their stools and sit down in that very spot."—Philadelphia Press.

Death of Prof. Clark.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., June 10.—Prof. Alvin G. Clark, the famous telescope lens manufacturer, has died at his home here of apoplexy.

A young woman about to be presented at court receives "the fullest instructions as to her behavior. She is told how to dress; how to manage her train; how to courtesy correctly. Every incident is carefully rehearsed so that she may commit no blunder in the presence of royalty. If all this trouble is worth while for the satisfaction of one brief moment, how infinitely more important it is that a young girl about to enter into the sacred precincts of womanhood, should be properly instructed in all that concerns a life-time of possible happiness, or possible misery.

Every mother ought to see to it that her daughters are healthy and strong in a womanly way. She ought to make them aware that any neglect or irregularity of the special functions of womanhood may result in life-long weakness and disease.

Any mother or daughter may write concerning these delicate ailments, with the utmost confidence to Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo, N. Y. Her letter will be answered free of charge with suggestions for self-treatment at home, by which these complaints may be overcome without need of mortifying examinations.

Dr. Pierce has had over thirty years' experience in the treatment of women's diseases, and is an eminent specialist in this particular field of practice. His "Favorite Prescription" cures completely and permanently the most obstinate cases of feminine weakness and disease. It heals all inflamed conditions, strengthens and tones the nerve-centres and the entire womanly organism.

For prospective mothers and nursing mothers, the "Favorite Prescription" is a perfect strength sustainer.

THE GLAD HAND.

East Liverpool Extends a Hearty Welcome—Our Citizens Show Appreciation in Public Utterances.

Lack of appreciation is not a failing of our citizens, and the advent of the "little conqueror" was received with the same display of enthusiasm that has spread all over the Union. Coming like a ray of sunshine to every household, raising burdens that many backs have borne for years, is enough to awaken the public to praise the like of which has never before been heard in this locality. From every ward, from every street come the same report. Failure is an unknown quantity as far as the "little conqueror" is concerned, and success follows every footstep. Right here at home the triumphs have been many and have set our people talking about the wondrous workings. The following case in point should interest every reader, and it is only one among thousands:

Mr. W. F. Cochran, of Mulberry street, East End, says: "At intervals for thirty years I have had serious kidney and bladder trouble. I have suffered with all the various symptoms in their worst form. The agony I have gone through can hardly be described. Many nights I have rolled from one side to the other trying to find an easy position for my back. I could not move without having sharp twinges of pain and I was also troubled with a urinary difficulty, the secretions being very irregular and at times distressing. I have been run down that I could hardly help myself. Doctors have treated me and I have taken a power of stuff. I had given up all hope of being cured, having suffered so long and not finding anything that would give me relief more than a few days. When I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised as a never failing remedy, I got a box at the W. and W. Pharmacy. After taking half of it I could see some improvement. I continued to improve from that time on. Doan's Kidney Pills have done me more good than anything I have yet taken and I am quite free in expressing my opinion of them by saying that they are a good remedy for all kidney and bladder trouble."

Doan's Kidney Pills are for sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents, or mailed by Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

WELLSVILLE.
THE PEOPLE ARE ANGRY
Council May Reconsider Its Action.
SCATHING SERMONS PROMISED

That Saloon Matter Is by No Means Ended.
Reverend McKee's Card and Doctor Reager's Address Arouse Public Sentiment—The Other News.

If council expected Wellsville to quietly lay down and allow its action on the saloon question to go unchallenged, council was mistaken. The indignation is increasing every day, and council is being scored on every hand. Reverend McKee is out in a card denouncing council, and last night at prayer meeting Doctor Reager scathingly arraigned the city fathers. The trend of sentiment is that the matter should be settled by the people, and council should have submitted it to a vote. It is believed that so much pressure will be brought to bear upon members that the question will be reconsidered.

The News of Wellsville.
Mrs. Samuel College, of New Brighton, is visiting home folks before going to her future home in New York state. T. W. Fraser's barn out in Madison township was struck by lightning, tearing off a corner and knocking in the door. The building was scorched, but did not ignite. The opening at Bunting's last night was a pronounced success. Scores of persons visited the handsomely decorated rooms, and heard the excellent music.

Conductor C. C. Snodgrass is ill. Brakeman J. P. Whalen is off duty suffering from a sprained ankle. The Wellsville Rechabites will attend the excursion of the Liverpool lodge to Silver Lake, near Akron, June 17. The church of the Immaculate Conception will picnic at Rock Spring in August. The closing entertainment of the perochial schools promises to be a unique affair.

Mrs. S. H. Stewart and daughter left for Pittsburg this morning, the latter to have an operation performed upon her eyes. Mrs. Merve Cline, of Commerce street, who was seriously ill, is improving.

Horace Mosher, son of Mrs. Davies, of Hotel Davies, arrived last night from Cripple Creek, Colorado, to take charge of affairs at the hotel. Mr. Mosher says Cripple Creek's prestige is on the wane, and the boom has burst. He says a good stiff tariff will have its effect in brightening up the lumber interests of Washington state.

The African Methodist Episcopal church social and festival was a decided success last night.

Humane Agent Workman reports matters in his line very quiet. The case of one Murphy, of East Liverpool, said to have been starving a couple of Texas ponies, was unfounded and a case of spite work.

Hose company No. 2, met last night and paid off its men. A meeting of the entire department will be held Friday evening.

Repairs to the engine at Lythe's are complete, and the plant will start tomorrow.

Two young men were standing in the shadow of a house in Center street, last evening, talking. A young lady residing in the house must have objected to remarks, for she contributed a shower bath of no small proportions.

Leonard Saltsman, formerly of Connell's grocery, is now employed at the rolling mill.

Railroad officials of the Cleveland and Pittsburg are proud of the achievement yesterday of carrying the Shriners' special from Pittsburg to Cleveland in three hours and 20 minutes. It left Pittsburg 10 minutes late, stopped at Alliance to fix a hotbox, and observing all rules of the company reached there on time.

A young man drove here from Carrollton in a buggy and left it at Haugh's stable. The Carrollton authorities telegraphed for his arrest, but no charge can be preferred against him as he has not the rig in his possession nor did he offer to sell it.

Picture agents, crayon artists and like fakirs have been overrunning Wellsville, and carrying away a good deal of money, which, if invested with local dealers might save the people just one-half in expenditure. A crayon portrait, all told, does not cost over $1; the agent's commission is generally $1, the collec-

GEN. COX WILL DECLINE. He Has No Intention of Becoming Minister to Spain.

CINCINNATI, June 10.—A reporter has seen General Jacob D. Cox and asked him: "Are you going to accept the offer of appointment as minister from the United States to Spain?"

General Cox answered promptly "I am not."

He then stated that he had received no official notice of this offer, but had been semi-officially informed that the offer would be made if he desired the place. Through this intermediary he thanked President McKinley for the compliment and gave his reasons for declining.

His principal reasons are that he has for several years been engaged in literary work that will take some years to complete, and he cannot afford to abandon it. Furthermore, the position offered imposes great responsibility and labor at this time. But this is a minor reason. General Cox has been offered a professorship in the law department of Cincinnati university, which he will decline for the same chief reason.

JUDGE PLEAD WITH A MOB. They Lynched a Negro He Had Just Sentenced to Death.

PRINCESS ANNE, Md., June 10.—William Andrews, colored, alias "Cuba," has been taken from the officer at the door of the courthouse and killed by a mob. Andrews had been tried, convicted and sentenced to death for feloniously assaulting Mrs. Benjamin T. Kelly, near Marion, on May 5. Judge Bage, who passed the death sentence upon Andrews, endeavored to reason with the excited crowd, but in vain.

Beethoven could play from memory all the preludes and fugues contained in Bach's "Well Tempered Clavichord." There are 48 preludes and the same number of fugues, and, as each is in the most abstruse style of counterpoint, the difficulty of this performance will be appreciated by every musician.

ARCHITECTURAL ART.

Nineteenth Century Experiments and Revivals Which Have Been Fruitless.

The best that can be said of the architecture of the nineteenth century is that it has been an architecture of exceptionally learned, ingenious and accomplished individualities. It has been an art of experiments which have failed and of revivals which have been fruitless. These individualities, with their consciousness highly educated and trained, have been embarrassed rather than aided by their knowledge of the great achievements of the past. It does not seem to have occurred to them to appeal to the sympathies of the people by uttering their inspirations in the vulgar tongue, but they have labored with immense talent and ingenuity to interpret and apply dead languages. Their efforts have been reminiscent, excursive and experimental. The architects have analyzed, theorized, disputed and argued. They have formed schools conserving classic or romantic traditions—schools which have fallen apart because progress has been found to be impossible on merely archaeological lines.

Many of the individualities developed under these conditions have been brilliant and powerful and have had a great following of lesser men. As the century has advanced certain of these individualities have been inspired by nobler and loftier motives. The architecture of the century, because it has been nourished in the same soil that produced the electric telegraph, the telephone and all the other triumphs of industrial art, has exhibited a certain sporadic vitality, has occasionally thrown out mighty branches full of the possibilities of a great fruition, but because it has not enjoyed the advantage of concentrated effort it has not flowered as it flowered in the thirteenth and sixteenth centuries, still less as it flowered in the ages of Pericles and Augustus.—Henry Van Brunt in Atlantic.

Punished.

The manner of a well bred man has a certain confident diffidence which is particularly attractive. It is the consciousness of power, combined with respect for the opinion of others.

WELLSVILLE.

THE PEOPLE ARE ANGRY

Council May Reconsider Its Action.

SCATHING SERMONS PROMISED

That Saloon Matter Is by No Means Ended. Reverend McKee's Card and Doctor Reager's Address Arouse Public Sentiment—The Other News.

If council expected Wellsville to quietly lay down and allow its action on the saloon question to go unchallenged, council was mistaken. The indignation is increasing every day, and council is being scored on every hand. Reverend McKee is out in a card denouncing council, and last night at prayer meeting Doctor Reager scathingly arraigned the city fathers. The trend of sentiment is that the matter should be settled by the people, and council should have submitted it to a vote. It is believed that so much pressure will be brought to bear upon members that the question will be reconsidered.

The News of Wellsville.

Mrs. Samuel College, of New Brighton, is visiting home folks before going to her future home in New York state.

T. W. Fraser's barn out in Madison township was struck by lightning, tearing off a corner and knocking in the door. The building was scorched, but did not ignite.

The opening at Bunting's last night was a pronounced success. Scores of persons visited the handsomely decorated rooms, and heard the excellent music.

Conductor C. C. Snodgrass is ill. Brakeman J. P. Whalen is off duty suffering from a sprained ankle.

The Wellsville Rechabites will attend the excursion of the Liverpool lodge to Silver Lake, near Akron, June 17.

The church of the Immaculate Conception will picnic at Rock Spring in August.

The closing entertainment of the perochial schools promises to be a unique affair.

Mrs. S. H. Stewart and daughter left for Pittsburgh this morning, the latter to have an operation performed upon her eyes.

Mrs. Merve Cline, of Commerce street, who was seriously ill, is improving.

Horace Mosher, son of Mrs. Davies, of Hotel Davies, arrived last night from Cripple Creek, Colorado, to take charge of affairs at the hotel. Mr. Mosher says Cripple Creek's prestige is on the wane, and the boom has burst. He says a good stiff tariff will have its effect in brightening up the lumber interests of Washington state.

The African Methodist Episcopal church social and festival was a decided success last night.

Humane Agent Workman reports matters in his line very quiet. The case of one Murphy, of East Liverpool, said to have been starving a couple of Texas ponies, was unfounded and a case of spite work.

Hose company No. 2, met last night and paid off its men. A meeting of the entire department will be held Friday evening.

Repairs to the engine at Lythe's are complete, and the plant will start tomorrow.

Two young men were standing in the shadow of a house in Center street, last evening, talking. A young lady residing in the house must have objected to remarks, for she contributed a shower bath of no small proportions.

Leonard Saltsman, formerly of Connell's grocery, is now employed at the rolling mill.

Railroad officials of the Cleveland and Pittsburgh are proud of the achievement yesterday of carrying the Shriners' special from Pittsburgh to Cleveland in three hours and 20 minutes. It left Pittsburgh 10 minutes late, stopped at Alliance to fix a hotbox, and observing all rules of the company reached there on time.

A young man drove here from Carrollton in a buggy and left it at Haugh's stable. The Carrollton authorities telegraphed for his arrest, but no charge can be preferred against him as he has not the rig in his possession nor did he offer to sell it.

Picture agents, crayon artists and like fakirs have been overrunning Wellsville, and carrying away a good deal of money, which, if invested with local dealers might save the people just one-half in expenditure. A crayon portrait, all told, does not cost over $1; the agent's commission is generally $1, the collec-

Two Extraordinary Bargains.

FOR FRIDAY AND SATURDAY.

No. 1.

Tomorrow morning we will place on sale 1400 yards of Fine Satines, 32 inches wide, manufactured to retail at 18c a yard, good designs, light colorings, elegant for making comforts and quilts, and cheaper than calico, quality considered. There are 60 pieces of them, with an average of 25 yards in each piece, and for 2 days only we propose selling them at

7 Cents a Yard

by the piece or 8c a yard for a less quantity. In other words, $4.50 worth of fine satine for $1.75. Here is a chance for everybody who makes their own comforts and quilts.

No. 2.

Is a big umbrella and parasol bargain. We have 58 28-inch men's $2 silk serge umbrellas.

35 26-inch ladies' navy silk umbrellas, $2.50 and $3 each.

35 fancy Persian all silk parasols $2.50 each.

Friday and Saturday you get your CHOICE for 99 Cents Each,

or about half as much as the manufacturer loses on each umbrella. This bargain equals that offered by us two weeks ago, when we offered 200 umbrellas at this same figure. While this sale lasts until Saturday night, come Friday if possible and get the choice things.

New Wash Goods, Shirt Waists, Belts and Collars and Cuffs, received today. See them.

THE BOSTON DEPARTMENT STORE.

tor's $1, and from $2 to $3 goes to the manufacturer. Five dollars invested with any local artist should secure the finest crayon work extant, but this amount is usually paid for machine work that costs the amount stated.

Schenkle's orchestra, of East Liverpool, will attend the grand opening of Bunting's ice cream parlor, Wednesday and Thursday evenings, June 9 and 10, at Wellsville, Ohio. Starret's Orchestra Thursday night.

GEN. COX WILL DECLINE.

He Has No Intention of Becoming Minister to Spain.

CINCINNATI, June 10.—A reporter has seen General Jacob D. Cox and asked him:

"Are you going to accept the offer of appointment as minister from the United States to Spain?"

General Cox answered promptly "I am not."

He then stated that he had received no official notice of this offer, but had been semi-officially informed that the offer would be made if he desired the place. Through this intermediary he thanked President McKinley for the compliment and gave his reasons for declining.

His principal reasons are that he has for several years been engaged in literary work that will take some years to complete, and he cannot afford to abandon it. Furthermore, the position offered imposes great responsibility and labor at this time. But this is a minor reason. General Cox has been offered a professorship in the law department of Cincinnati university, which he will decline for the same chief reason.

JUDGE PLEAD WITH A MOB.

They Lynched a Negro He Had Just Sentenced to Death.

PRINCESS ANNE, Md., June 10.—William Andrews, colored, alias "Cuba," has been taken from the officer at the door of the courthouse and killed by a mob. Andrews had been tried, convicted and sentenced to death for feloniously assaulting Mrs. Benjamin T. Kelly, near Marion, on May 5. Judge Bage, who passed the death sentence upon Andrews, endeavored to reason with the excited crowd, but in vain.

Beethoven could play from memory all the preludes and fugues contained in Bach's "Well Tempered Clavichord." There are 48 preludes and the same number of fugues, and, as each is in the most abstruse style of counterpoint, the difficulty of this performance will be appreciated by every musician.

ARCHITECTURAL ART.

Nineteenth Century Experiments and Revivals Which Have Been Fruitless.

The best that can be said of the architecture of the nineteenth century is that it has been an architecture of exceptionally learned, ingenious and accomplished individualities. It has been an art of experiments which have failed and of revivals which have been fruitless. These individualities, with their consciousness highly educated and trained, have been embarrassed rather than aided by their knowledge of the great achievements of the past. It does not seem to have occurred to them to appeal to the sympathies of the people by uttering their inspirations in the vulgar tongue, but they have labored with immense talent and ingenuity to interpret and apply dead languages. Their efforts have been reminiscent, excursive and experimental. The architects have analyzed, theorized, discussed and argued. They have formed schools and conserved classic or romantic traditions—schools which have fallen apart because progress has been found to be impossible on merely archaeological lines.

Many of the individualities developed under these conditions have been brilliant and powerful and have had a great following of lesser men. As the century has advanced certain of these individualities have been inspired by nobler and loftier motives. The architecture of the century, because it has been nourished in the same soil that produced the electric telegraph, the telephone and all the other triumphs of industrial art, has exhibited a certain sporadic vitality, has occasionally thrown out mighty branches full of the possibilities of a great fruition, but because it has not enjoyed the advantage of concentrated effort it has not flowered as it flowered in the thirteenth and sixteenth centuries, still less as it flowered in the ages of Pericles and Augustus.—Henry Van Brunt in Atlantic.

Punished.

Perturbed Parent—Who has eaten the cake in the pantry?
Undaunted Infant—I did.
P. P.—And what did you do that for?
U. I.—I heard you tell Jane always to keep the cupboard shut. Yesterday she forgot, so I thought I would punish her by eating all the cakes.—Pearson's Weekly.

The manner of a well bred man has a certain confident diffidence which is particularly attractive. It is the consciousness of power, combined with respect for the opinion of others.

From Washington to Batavia is 11,118 miles.

500 Chinese Fishermen Lost.

VICTORIA, B. C., June 10.—News brought by the Empress of Japan says that while the fishermen of Chusan Archipelago, off the coast of China, were out on the fishing banks, a terrible gale sprung up. Some 500 men lost their lives.

Death of a Midget.

KANSAS CITY, June 10.—C. W. Sparling, a midget, is dead here of throat trouble. He was 34 years old and only 42 inches in height and weighed 53 pounds.

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., THURSDAY, JUNE 10.

A BEAVER man has invented a voting machine. He should have one at the next senatorial convention in this district. It might save some delay.

THE senate is wise in refusing to place a duty on tea. That schedule should never have had a consideration, much less a place in a protective measure.

THERE will not be a great deal of county politics in Columbiana this year if Potts and his friends do not put up a better fight than they made last November.

THE Urbana incident has proved a fertile field for the southerners who have been comparing Ohio with Mississippi, but they forget that the press of this state, almost without exception, condemned the lynching.

IF the Democrats continue to antagonize the gold wing of their party and are unable to effect a union with the Populists, they stand as much chance of winning the election next fall as they do of delaying prosperity by defeating the tariff bill.

No matter what scandal may arise or what benefit the sugar trust will derive from the enactment of the proposed schedule, it will serve to encourage the cultivation of the sugar beet and place thousands of dollars in the pockets of those farmers so enterprising as to hear the knock of fortune at their door.

THERE is something more than a suspicion that President McKinley has wearied of Spain and Spanish atrocities, and will soon send forth a message which even the brutal ministry cannot misunderstand. If he does, watch the Dons shrink into themselves. The bankrupt kingdom stands in fear of the United States.

IN spite of the prospect of an enormous crop wheat has steadily advanced, and the chances are for even better prices. The farmer has had a hard time of it under low tariff, and the Democrats promised him more misfortunes under the existing monetary system, but as usual the Democrats seem to have missed their guess.

THE SILVER MEN'S TRICKS.

The Democrats will leave no stone unturned to capture the next legislature, knowing as they do that upon the result of the November contest depends the political complexion of the Ohio delegation in the senate. The leaders have already entered upon what will be a notable campaign. The best politicians in the party are taking sides with the various factions. Men who have not been here for years are being returned in order that their influence and knowledge may aid the cause. Keep an eye on the leaders. They are up to all sorts of political mischief, and will bear watching.

THE TANYARD SEWER.

The proposition to sewer Tanyard run at a cost of almost $20,000 seems at the first glance a burden too heavy for East Liverpool to assume at this time, but if the health of the city is endangered by the stream as it is at present there is but one course to pursue. It is the duty of council to investigate this matter carefully. The amount involved is too great to be expended without the positive knowledge that it is needed. It would be a paying investment to expend a few dollars in ascertaining the exact danger from that source. A little time and money judiciously used now may be the means of saving a great many dollars for the taxpayers.

A WILD RUNAWAY.

Mr. Anderson's Horse Proved Himself a Gymnast.

A horse driven by Sant Anderson, last evening, ran off in Robinson street. Mr. Anderson jumped from the buggy and was not injured. When Broadway was reached the buggy upset and the horse fell, sliding clear across the street. It was captured at once. The buggy was almost a total wreck, while the horse was badly cut and bruised.

Their Annual.

The musical union are making arrangements to hold their annual picnic at Rock Spring in August.

DIED THIS MORNING.

Mrs. Charles B. Ogden Passed Peacefully Away.

Mrs. C. B. Ogden died this morning at 7:15 o'clock from an attack of peritonitis and heart trouble, aged 38 years. Mary Ellen Talbot was born in this city in December, 1859, and was the youngest daughter of William and Ellen Talbot. Four sisters survive her, Mrs. William Cartwright, Mrs. John Rhodes, Mrs. Samuel Cartwright and Mrs. George Croxall. In September, 1878, she was united in marriage to Dr. C. B. Ogden by Rev. A. W. Butts, then pastor of the First M. E. church.

She was taken ill about two weeks ago while her husband was in Washington, but it was thought at first her illness was not serious. She grew rapidly worse and for the past three days she has been hovering between life and death. She was perfectly conscious that the end was approaching, and met death with that fortitude which has characterized her through life. Death had no sting when it came, and at 7:15 o'clock this morning with a smile upon her face she passed into the world above. Mrs. Ogden was beloved and respected by all who knew her, and the announcement of her death caused a gloom to spread over the entire community. She was an earnest member of the First Presbyterian church, and the Eastern Star. Her husband and four children, the oldest not yet 17 years, are left to mourn her loss, and they have the sympathy of the entire city in their sad bereavement.

The arrangements for the funeral have not been made, but it will probably take place Sunday afternoon.

FILED THE DEED.

The Grand Army Now Owns the Memorial Lot.

The deed for the lot in Riverview on which will be built the Memorial chapel of General Lyon post was today filed at Lisbon.

The committees are at work, and expect in the near future to have some good report for the public. An effort to secure the aid and co-operation of secret orders in the city met with gratifying success.

A Busy Day.

Everybody at the freight station was on the go yesterday, as an unusual number of cars were handled during the day. At the outbound sheds 16 cars were loaded, and at the inbound sheds eight were unloaded. Distributed among the local potteries 51 cars were handled, making a total of 85 cars for the day. This is the largest day's work so far this month.

They Know Him.

Hon. John Welty, the Canton attorney who has announced his candidacy for governor on the Democratic ticket, is well known in this city, but a leading member of the party stated today that he would not gather a great deal of force here.

Buckshot For the Next.

Last evening a crowd of young boys entered the yard of Thomas Anderson, in Walnut street, to steal roses. Beside doing this they completely destroyed the bush. A load of buckshot is awaiting the next gang.

A Rash Promise.

We live in hope of some day seeing the last of the damage cases against the East Liverpool and Wellsville street railway. Then we shall have something in the way of news from Lisbon. —Salem News.

Hard to Get a Quorum.

The McKinley club will hold their meeting this evening. It is very hard for them to secure a quorum, but President Hill says the club will open rooms immediately after the governor is nominated.

Played With the Police.

About 8:30 last evening a young boy came rushing into the mayor's office and said there was a fight in a Smoky Row saloon. An officer was hastily dispatched, but no fight could be located.

Excursion to Chillicothe.

SOME TRAINED CATS.

The Clever Tricks They Have Been Taught to Perform.

One of the most difficult things to teach a cat is to follow like a dog. As a rule, they will not follow, but occasionally there is an exception. A New York young lady has a cat that trails so close after her as to be almost stepped upon. The chief clerk of the state department at Washington has a cat with the same accomplishment. He has owned it for seven or eight years. It will follow him about the streets for miles just like a dog and is excessively fond of going out for a walk, provided its master selects evenings for his meanderings. In daylight it prefers not to go on these rambles, evidently because it does not like to come in contact with small boys and dogs, who are then too numerous on the streets of Washington.

It has often been observed that cats really care nothing for a master or a mistress, but become attached to place and not to persons. Not so with this particular cat, for at one time when its owner changed his residence he purposely left his cat with friends who occupied the house he had vacated, but the cat was not satisfied until it had found where the new house was and taken up its abode there, with evident delight at finding its old friend and protector.

In the treasury department at Washington there is one very wonderful cat. His name is Tom, and when addressed he will quickly respond, even waking out of a sound sleep to go toward the speaker. Sometimes, to confuse him, the clerks will sing out some word or words in which the syllable "tom" is emphasized, and to that he pays no attention. But let any one call, "Tom, it's dinner time!" and forthwith he walks across the room, reaches up with his paws to a tin pail, claws it down and comes bringing it in his mouth. Tom is passionately fond of music. At the cry of "Hand organ!" he climbs to a high window seat, but at the words "Here's a dog!" he slinks under a desk.

One of the most accomplished cats in England belongs to Lady Randolph Churchill. It is a maltese Angora, without spot and with a particularly cunning face. This cat was bought for the late Lord Randolph Churchill during that year or two when his strong mind failed and every effort was made to amuse him. He was afraid of dogs, taking a sudden terror at the sight of them, but Miss Angora just pleased him. She was sent from India by an officer in that country who had taken her parents there years before. Her mother had been a watch cat, able to keep guard over a tent, meowing if a strange step came, and of course her children were very bright. When this Churchill cat was told to "Go play the piano," she would immediately walk back and forth upon the keys of the baby grand in the boudoir. "Now sit for your picture," meant to assume a demure position, with her paws in line, her tail neatly curled around them and her head nicely bent to one side, as if trying to "look pleasant." —Our Animal Friends.

A Pearl Farm.

There is only one pearl farm in the world. It is in the Torres strait, at the northern extremity of Australia, and belongs to James Clark of Queensland. Mr. Clark, who is known as "the king of the pearl fishers," originally stocked it with 150,000 pearl oysters. Now 1,500 men—200 of whom are divers—and 250 vessels are employed in harvesting the crop.

"I have been 15 years engaged in pearl fishing," Mr. Clark told a correspondent of the Melbourne Age. "I began in a small way and have given the fisheries my close attention during all this time. My experience has led me to the belief that, with proper intelligence in the selection of a place, one can raise pearls and pearl shells as easily as one can raise oysters."

"I started my farm three years ago and have stocked it with shells which I obtained, in many instances, far out at sea. To grow shells successfully, however, according to my experience thus far, the water must not be too deep."

"My pearl shell farm covers 5,089 square miles. Over most of it the water is shallow. In shallow water shells attain the greatest size, and, besides, it is hard on the divers to go down deep for them."

"I ship my pearls to London in my own vessels. The catch each year runs, roughly speaking, from $200,000 worth up to almost five times that amount."

Great Good Fortune.

Good luck is of all kinds, some of it queer. The San Francisco Post, for instance, tells how a laboring man in that city found himself fortunate in a way most unexpected.

When the noon whistle blew the other day, he sat down on a box in the shade, thrust his hand into his overcoat pocket, looked surprised and then remarked:

"I've lost my lunch."

He pondered over his predicament a moment and then added:

"Well, I've got something to drink anyway." And he pulled a bottle of coffee out of his other pocket.

He slowly drained the bottle, threw it aside and sat lost in thought for a moment. Suddenly he sprang up, slapped his thigh and exclaimed:

"It's a good job I lost my lunch!"

"Why so?" inquired another workman.

"Why, I left my teeth at home."

OUR OWN MAKE.

One Piece of Architecture That Is Far Above Comparative Criticism.

There was an air of tolerant superiority about him, which made his unfavorable comments on the things brought to his attention doubly hard to bear. His Washington host was doing his best to show him the city in such a manner as to leave a good impression, for he had announced his intention of writing a book as soon as he got back to London. But whatever he saw served only to bring to mind something in Europe that he liked better.

"Very good," he remarked as one of the department buildings was brought to his attention. "Very good in its way. But it has the defects which always result from the efforts of a mere copyist."

"We are inclined to regard that as a very handsome building," said his entertainer mildly.

"No doubt. And it does well enough. Yours is a young nation—one that cannot be expected to hold any great eminence for its achievements, either artistic or political."

"You mean that we haven't any style of our own?"

"That expresses the idea."

"You come with me. I'll show you a style of architecture that reflects the national spirit of this country, something that's our own design and that commands the respect of two continents. There it is—the Washington monument. One look at it tells the whole story, and it doesn't need any fluted columns or filigree work around the corners to make people admire it either. Upright, massive and immutable, it's the biggest thing of its kind on earth, and it means business from the ground clear up to the topmost molecule of the lightning rod." —Washington Star.

The Japanese In California.

Every month sees more Japanese arrive, and a larger percentage of them are common laborers, who enter the hop yards, orchards and sugar beet fields of California. In fruit packing they have crowded out white men and women.

They are as quick as women and girls in handling fruit and are more accurate and steadily industrious. They practically monopolize the industry of beet pulling on the large ranches devoted to the sugar beet. Complaints of the rapid displacement of white laborers by Japanese in orchard work induced the labor bureau recently to make an investigation. They found that the Japanese worked under a co-operative plan and that by this means they were able to make contracts at low prices. Several associations in San Francisco are engaged in house cleaning, dividing the profits among their members. The Japanese are doing a large trade in San Francisco in bamboo ware and matting, which are used mainly for decoration of rooms. They have cut into the Chinese trade in curios and embroidered silk garments. —Chautauquan.

Buttons.

Nearly all the elegant buttons are now shown in three distinct sizes designed for one costume. Many of the smaller buttons are veritable jewels in their artistic beauty of color and design, and they are set exactly like actual gems on low mountings of whitened silver or pure gold or pearl. Jet, plumb colored enamel, and bronze buttons set in riveted points are all familiar styles. Some of the handsome jet and iridescent cord passementeries have buttons to match which are not intended to have any strain upon them, but are merely used as decorations all over the cloth or other costume.

Nominations Sent to the Senate.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—The president has sent the following nominations to the senate: Lawrence Townsend of Pennsylvania to be envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary of the United States to Portugal; Ellis H. EAST LIVERPOOL, O., THURSDAY, JUNE 10.

A BEAVER man has invented a voting machine. He should have one at the next senatorial convention in this district. It might save some delay.

The senate is wise in refusing to place a duty on tea. That schedule should never have had a consideration, much less a place in a protective measure.

THERE will not be a great deal of county politics in Columbiana this year if Potts and his friends do not put up a better fight than they made last November.

THE Urbana incident has proved a fertile field for the southerners who have been comparing Ohio with Mississippi, but they forget that the press of this state, almost without exception, condemned the lynching.

If the Democrats continue to antagonize the gold wing of their party and are unable to effect a union with the Populists, they stand as much chance of winning the election next fall as they do of delaying prosperity by defeating the tariff bill.

No matter what scandal may arise or what benefit the sugar trust will derive from the enactment of the proposed schedule, it will serve to encourage the cultivation of the sugar beet and place thousands of dollars in the pockets of those farmers so enterprising as to hear the knock of fortune at their door.

THERE is something more than a suspicion that President McKinley has wearied of Spain and Spanish atrocities, and will soon send forth a message which even the brutal ministry cannot misunderstand. If he does, watch the Dons shrink into themselves. The bankrupt kingdom stands in fear of the United States.

In spite of the prospect of an enormous crop wheat has steadily advanced, and the chances are for even better prices. The farmer has had a hard time of it under low tariff, and the Democrats promised him more misfortunes under the existing monetary system, but as usual the Democrats seem to have missed their guess.

THE SILVER MEN'S TRICKS.
The Democrats will leave no stone unturned to capture the next legislature, knowing as they do that upon the result of the November contest depends the political complexion of the Ohio delegation in the senate. The leaders have already entered upon what will be a notable campaign. The best politicians in the party are taking sides with the various factions. Men who have not been here for years are being returned in order that their influence and knowledge may aid the cause. Keep an eye on the leaders. They are up to all sorts of political mischief, and will bear watching.

THE TANYARD SEWER.
The proposition to sewer Tanyard run at a cost of almost $20,000 seems at the first glance a burden too heavy for East Liverpool to assume at this time, but if the health of the city is endangered by the stream as it is at present there is but one course to pursue. It is the duty of council to investigate this matter carefully. The amount involved is too great to be expended without the positive knowledge that it is needed. It would be a paying investment to expend a few dollars in ascertaining the exact danger from that source. A little time and money judiciously used now may be the means of saving a great many dollars for the taxpayers.

A WILD RUNAWAY.
Mr. Anderson's Horse Proved Himself a Gymnast.
A horse driven by Sant Anderson, last evening, ran off in Robinson street. Mr. Anderson jumped from the buggy and was not injured. When Broadway was reached the buggy upset and the horse fell, sliding clear across the street. It was captured at once. The buggy was almost a total wreck, while the horse was badly cut and bruised.

Their Annual.
The musical union are making arrangements to hold their annual picnic at Rock Spring in August.

DIED THIS MORNING.

Mrs. Charles B. Ogden Passed Peacefully Away.

Mrs. C. B. Ogden died this morning at 7:15 o'clock from an attack of peritonitis and heart trouble, aged 38 years. Mary Ellen Talbot was born in this city in December, 1859, and was the youngest daughter of William and Ellen Talbot. Four sisters survive her, Mrs. William Cartwright, Mrs. John Rhodes, Mrs. Samuel Cartwright and Mrs. George Croxall. In September, 1878, she was united in marriage to Dr. C. B. Ogden by Rev. A. W. Butts, then pastor of the First M. E. church.

She was taken ill about two weeks ago while her husband was in Washington, but it was thought at first her illness was not serious. She grew rapidly worse and for the past three days she has been hovering between life and death. She was perfectly conscious till the end was approaching, and met death with that fortitude which has characterized her through life. Death had no sting when it came, and at 7:15 o'clock this morning with a smile upon her face she passed into the world above. Mrs. Ogden was beloved and respected by all who knew her, and the announcement of her death caused a gloom to spread over the entire community. She was an earnest member of the First Presbyterian church, and the Eastern Star. Her husband and four children, the oldest not yet 17 years, are left to mourn her loss, and they have the sympathy of the entire city in their sad bereavement.

The arrangements for the funeral have not been made, but it will probably take place Sunday afternoon.

FILED THE DEED.

The Grand Army Now Owns the Memorial Lot.

The deed for the lot in Riverview on which will be built the Memorial chapel of General Lyon post was today filed at Lisbon.

The committees are at work, and expect in the near future to have some good report for the public. An effort to secure the aid and co-operation of secret orders in the city met with gratifying success.

A Busy Day.

Everybody at the freight station was on the go yesterday, as an unusual number of cars were handled during the day. At the outbound sheds 16 cars were loaded, and at the inbound sheds eight were unloaded. Disributed among the local potteries 51 cars were handled, making a total of 85 cars for the day. This is the largest day's work so far this month.

They Know Him.

Hon. John Welty, the Canton attorney who has announced his candidacy for governor on the Democratic ticket, is well known in this city, but a leading member of the party stated today that he would not gather a great deal of force here.

Buckshot For the Next.

Last evening a crowd of young boys entered the yard of Thomas Anderson, in Walnut street, to steal roses. Beside doing this they completely destroyed the bush. A load of buckshot is awaiting the next gang.

A Rash Promise.

SANT TOLD HIS STORY

How the Contract Was Made
With the City.

THAT HISTORIC AFTER SESSION

Clerk Hanley Recalled Some Things In Connection With the Meeting, Remembering That the Contract Had Been Made.

LISBON, June 10.—[Special]—John Sant's suit against East Liverpool, Charles Berg, R. J. Marshall, John Horwell, E. J. Owen, William Kent and William Swindells, members of council in 1894, to recover judgment for $422, which he claims to be due him by virtue of a resolution passed in December, 1894, was called for trial in court this morning. Sant's action is to find the responsibility of the city under the contract signed by Councilmen Berg and Marshall, agreeing to pay Sant ten per cent. of a large amount of money which the city was to recover through information provided by Sant. When he was employed by the bondsmen of J. R. Martin at the time of the treasury shortage to audit the books he claimed he learned of the existence of $4,266 on the Dow tax duplicate which had been due Liverpool for a year and a half.

Clerk J. N. Hanley was the first witness.

"Do you remember of a contract between Sant and the city," was asked by Attorney W. H. Spence.

"I do. It was in December 1894. I was present at the meeting of council and also at the after session when Clark, Sant and the members of council met in the clerk's room."

"What occurred at that meeting concerning the signing of the contract?"

"The contract was read and some changes made when it was signed by the finance committee."

John Sant came next and said: "In 1894 I lived in Liverpool where I was an expert accountant. In December I first approached the members of council concerning this contract. I was present with them at a meeting held after the regular session. I had previously spoken of the matter with the solicitor, and he had told me he would arrange for me to meet the members of council. When we met I read the contract, and on the suggestion of the solicitor some changes were made."

"What proposition or motion was put to members of council then present by the president?" was asked.

"After the contract was read the question was asked as to whether it should be signed. Every member voted yes, and as only the members of the finance committee were present it was signed by them."

"Was the resolution in writing?"

"It was not."

"After the contract was signed I told the solicitor what this money was. It was in the county treasury, or if it was not it should have been. I had an interview with the clerk, and showed him what was due the city. At the request of the solicitor I came to Lisbon. Council asked that we come over and demand the money. We told the auditor that I had furnished the information, and the sum of $4266 was due the city. The money was paid the following March."

THE TAX LEVY.

It Was Decided Upon by Auditor Harvey and the Commissioners.

LISBON, June 10.—[Special]—Auditor Harvey and the commissioners yesterday assessed the tax levy for the county for the coming year. The total levy for county and state is seven mills, the same as last year. If the taxes are higher in any locality, it will be on account of local levies for school, township or corporation. The assessment is as follows: County fund, 2 mills; children's home, .30; bridge, .93; building, .10; soldiers' relief, .10; interest and bond redemption, .05; special bridge, .07. Total—County, 4.16; state levy, 2.84.

The following assignment was made public today: June 28—W. D. Moore vs. R. H. Whan, A. J. McIntosh vs. W. H. Johnson, Oliver Hague vs. M. El-Bott, Miller Hardware Co. vs. G. E. Meredith, S. Hasson vs. J. B. Hasson, Tuesday—Wayne County Insurance Co. vs. N. U. Walker, I. B. Cameron vs. J. W. Riley, Mariah Dugan vs. D. Fitzpatrick, E. Tatters vs. J. W. Sheckler, Wednesday—J. A DOZEN YEARS

Patrick Malone Must Stay In the Penitentiary.

LISBON, June 10.—[Special]—At 1 o'clock this afternoon Patrick Malone, who was convicted of manslaughter last Friday, was taken into court for sentence. Prosecutor Speaker made a brief statement before sentence was passed.

"The defendant is to be congratulated," he said, "on account of the finding of the jury. The case cannot be called a usual case of manslaughter on account of the relations sustained by Malone in the Geisse home. He had armed himself and had over and over again stated his purpose of carrying out threats made by him of killing members of that family. Whatever the trouble between the defendant and Edward Geisse was precipitated by the defendant. The testimony in my mind brought the case dangerously near the line of first degree."

"Whatever had been the relation sustained between the defendant and the mother of the Geisse boys there was no objection to him coming. If we are to judge from the testimony of Frank he had no objection to anything but the blackguarding and drinking. The logic of the verdict is that this killing was simply unlawful, no malice, no purpose." Said J. H. Brookes in his statement, "Malone simply went one step farther than he should have done. No matter what his threats had been he had no intention of carrying them out, and had he been allowed to pass from the house as he had intended this unfortunate killing had not been done. The jury had a right to consider the condition of the man's mind. No one regrets the act more than Malone. It is a case where we can ask with propriety for the leniency of the court."

When asked if he had anything to say Malone replied:

"Your Honor, I would ask you to be as lenient as you can. I got into bad company."

Judge Smith said the verdict satisfied the court, and evidently the prisoner and his counsel. He then sentenced Malone to 12 years in the penitentiary.

THE ROBISON DEFENSE.

It Will In All Probability Be Insanity.

LISBON, June 10.—[Special]—It is generally believed here that the defense in the Robison case will be insanity. It is known that Robison was yesterday examined by a prominent physician, but the result is of course not made public. Another development of interest is that Chuck Stewart will be here at the right time.

Wants His Money.

LISBON, June 10.—[Special]—W. L. Smith this afternoon sued Jno. Sant for $1180. The city and the councilmen are also interested.

The Liverpool Ice Co., sued Ben Little for $602.32.

LOOKING FOR BUSINESS.

The Burlington Wants to Carry Liverpool People West.

F. P. Wyne, traveling passenger agent of the Burlington route, was in town today looking up business for his road in connection with the Endeavor convention at San Francisco and the Elks meeting in Milwaukee.

Agent Hill also entertained C. G. Sankey, the Pennsylvania passenger agent of New Castle. He came here in charge of the excursion.

HAMILTON-HAYES.

The Wedding Took Place In Canton Last Evening.

W. O. Hamilton and Mrs. Anna Hayes were married last evening at the residence of the bride in Canton by Rev. Chas. O'Meara, of St. Stephen's church. The contracting parties are well known to a great many persons in this city who wish them all the happiness they can have.

Grand opening at Ellwood Buntings, ice cream parlor, Wednesday and Thursday evenings, June 9 and 10, Wellsville, Ohio. Starret's Orchestra Thursday night.

BUT LITTLE JEWELRY WAS FOUND

Five Unknowns Taken Out—A Soldier—It Will Not Be Long Until Every Grave In the Row Nearest the Bank Will Have Been Opened.

The removing of the bodies from the old cemetery to the city's plot in Spring Grove is progressing rapidly. Yesterday Sexton Whitikar removed five bodies, the names of which are not known. Today eight will be taken out. Among those to be removed are Mary Miles, William Dunegan, Jennie Mader, age 9 months, June 23, 1884; Margaret Mayer, aged 15, Sept. 24, 1881; one grave marked "M. T.," Maria Morris, April 2, 1850; Jefferson, April 2, 1850; W. P. Morris, Aug. 6, 1860; Hiram Eoff, Company G, Fourth West Virginia infantry; Elizabeth K. Burrows, two; Thomas W. Firth, Aug. 14, 1887; E. Dray, M. Dray.

When all the above persons have been removed it will complete the row that would next have gone over the bank. But little jewelry has been found as yet. Only two rings have been claimed by relatives of those on whom they were found. This morning a coffin was unearthed the preservation of which was almost perfect. It is supposed to have been buried about 10 years ago.

The head of a woman moved today contained a pair of side combs, and her hair was in a fair condition. The body of a Mrs. Simpson who, it is thought, lived on either Fifth or Sixth streets, was also removed.

IN BUSINESS TO STAY.

Jeweler John M. McKinney Speaks to the Public.

Certain parties in the city of East Liverpool have been earnestly engaged in circulating the report that Jeweler McKinney intends quitting business entirely in this city and removing to some other point. Don't take any stock in such false statements. Jeweler McKinney not only intends doing business here, but will remain in the popular old stand in the Diamond, where he will do his utmost to cater to the public at large in an agreeable manner, through the mediums of the best goods manufactured, at most reasonable figures. He further informs his old-time customers and friends, and the public in general, that he is fully prepared to attend to their desires in the line of optical goods, of the latest and most approved pattern, and will guarantee absolute satisfaction in remedying defective eyesight, through the instrumentality of eye glasses and spectacles, at the hands of one fully capable of attending to such an important and vital feature. You will find me at the old stand, where I shall take great pleasure in waiting upon you.

SENT FOR THE SON.

But He Failed to Return at the Right Time.

The police yesterday afternoon were asked to ascertain the whereabouts of Sam Hester, a lad 17 years old, who lives with his mother in Seldomseen. The boy, Tuesday, told his mother he was going uptown, and she had heard nothing of him since. The police, knowing the father of the lad worked in Salineville, telephoned him in reference to the boy. The father said the boy was there with him, and that he would be sent to his mother on the train arriving in this city at 8 o'clock last evening. An officer was at the train, but the boy failed to arrive.

WANT WATER.

Residents of Anderson Addition Petition the Board.

Clerk Gipner, of the water works, this morning received a petition from five residents of Anderson addition asking that the water mains be extended to the north end of Florence street, a distance of 350 feet. It will be acted on at the next meeting of the board. It is a question whether the residents can be supplied with water from the low reservoir, but Superintendent Morley will investigate and make a report. It is also doubtful whether the income will be sufficient to justify the expense in laying the pipes.

Special Notice.

A special meeting of Trades and Labor council will be held in council chamber, city hall, on Friday evening, June 11, at 7:30 p. m. All members are requested to be present.

SANT TOLD HIS STORY

How the Contract Was Made
With the City.

THAT HISTORIC AFTER SESSION

Clerk Hanley Recalled Some Things In Connection With the Meeting, Remembering That the Contract Had Been Made.

LISBON, June 10.—[Special]—John Sant's suit against East Liverpool, Charles Berg, R. J. Marshall, John Horwell, E. J. Owen, William
Kent and William Swindells, members of council in 1894, to recover judgment for $422, which he claims to be due him by virtue of a resolution passed in December, 1894, was called for trial in court this morning. Sant's action is to find the responsibility of the city under the contract signed by Councilmembers Berg and Marshall, agreeing to to pay Sant ten per cent. of a large amount of money which the city was to recover through information provided by Sant. When he was employed by the bondsmen of J. R. Martin at the time of the treasury shortage to audit the books he claimed he learned of the existence of $4,266 on the Dow tax duplicate which had been due Liverpool for a year and a half.

Clerk J. N. Hanley was the first witness.

"Do you remember of a contract between Sant and the city," was asked by Attorney W. H. Spence.

"I do. It was in December 1894. I was present at the meeting of council and also at the after session when Clark, Sant and the members of council met in the clerk's room?"

"What occurred at that meeting concerning the signing of the contract?"

"The contract was read and some changes made when it was signed by the finance committee."

John Sant came next and said: "In 1894 I lived in Liverpool where I was an expert accountant. In December I first approached the members of council concerning this contract. I was present with them at a meeting held after the regular session. I had previously spoken of the matter with the solicitor, and he had told me he would arrange for me to meet the members of council. When we met I read the contract, and on the suggestion of the solicitor some changes were made."

"What proposition or motion was put to members of council then present by the president?" was asked.

"After the contract was read the question was asked as to whether it should be signed. Every member voted yes, and as only the members of the finance committee were present it was signed by them."

"Was the resolution in writing?"

"It was not."

"After the contract was signed I told the solicitor what this money was. It was in the county treasury, or if it was not it should have been. I had an interview with the clerk, and showed him what was due the city. At the request of the solicitor I came to Lisbon. Council asked that we come over and demand the money. We told the auditor that I had furnished the information, and the sum of $4266 was due the city. The money was paid the following March."

THE TAX LEVY.

It Was Decided Upon by Auditor Harvey and the Commissioners.

LISBON, June 10.—[Special]—Auditor
Harvey and the commissioners yesterday assessed the tax levy for the county for the coming year. The total levy for county and state is seven mills, the same as last year. If the taxes are higher in any locality, it will be on account of local levies for school, township or corporation. The assessment is as follows:
County fund, 2 mills; children's home,
.30; bridge, .93; building, .10; soldiers' relief, .10; interest and bond redemption, .05; special bridge, .07. Total—
County, 4.16; state levy, 2.84.

LISBON, June 10.—[Special]—At 1

When asked if he had anything to say
Malone replied:

"Your Honor, I would ask you to be

Judge Smith said the verdict satisfied the court, and evidently the prisoner and his counsel. He then sentenced Malone to 12 years in the penitentiary.

NO PATH THIS YEAR

But Wheelmen Will Not Abandon the Plan.

QUIET WORK DURING THE WINTER

Is Expected to Make Public Sentiment Lean Their Way—Their Influence Is Increasing—No Association Team—All the Baseball News.

The wheelmen who have been untiring in their efforts to have council make something of the hill road to East End, have reached the conclusion that nothing can be done with the project this season, but are by no means discouraged. They will not let the matter rest, but propose to keep it before the public for the remainder of the summer and during the winter. They argue that the number of riders is increasing every month, and not many years will pass before council is compelled to recognize their influence. Every serious accident in the city is regarded as an argument in their favor.

The Young Men's Christian association will not have a ball team in the field this year. The absence of available material is the cause. Director Morris is completing arrangements for the relay races.

The Tombstones have decided not to skin the diamond at Spring Grove. It will be enlarged and made the regulation size.

A baseball team is being organized to play the East Liverpool club at Rock Spring June 15.

The J. G. Richards baseball team of Braddock, well and favorably known in this city, has become the Young Men's Christian association club of Wilmerding. Headquarters have been changed to that town.

Winnie Mercer yesterday held St. Louis down to six hits, and won his game 6 to 0. He also had three hits to his credit.

McNicol yesterday played a good game at short for Toledo, and had one hit and three assists. Folly their new shortstop has arrived, and it is probable he will play in the game today.

WILL CARRY DOGS FREE.

The Pennsylvania Company Now Consider Them Baggage.

The Pennsylvania company has issued an order that in the future dogs will be carried as passengers' baggage. Heretofore the express companies having the contracts with the various railroads have claimed the right to carry canines at express rates; or in other words at double the regular rates. The consequence of this action has been that dog fanciers and breeders have, to a great extent, ceased sending their dogs to distant bench shows.

MANY NEW SHAPES

Will Be Put on the Market by Local Potteries.

The modelers are all busy preparing new shapes for the potteries. While there is no radical change in design, nor is there anything particularly striking, there will be enough originality and beauty to make many of them what is known as good sellers. A number of potteries will have new designs for the fall trade. In spite of the delay in the enactment of the tariff, a good trade is expected.

LOAFERS AGAIN

They Filled the Business Section Last Night.

Street loafing has become almost as much of a nuisance as ever. Washington street between Fifth and Sixth was last night the resting place of many, while every corner in the Diamond had more than its usual quota. The police almost succeeded in breaking up the practice, but it seems to have gained a new start.

A CORDIAL INVITATION.

The Toledo Press Club Will Entertain the Boys.

The NEWS REVIEW acknowledges the receipt of an invitation of the Toledo Press club to make use of its quarters during the Republican convention in that city. The club and the Blade have made arrangements which will afford the visiting newspaper men a time of enjoyment.

A Hard Fall.

A young woman had a hard fall in Fourth street last night, the front wheel of her bicycle striking a piece of wood. She limped away saying all sorts of things concerning the police for not enforcing the bicycle ordinance so far as it relates to overloaded wagons.

SHIP LIGHTING.

How Electrical Appliances Are Now Utilized For This Purpose.

When electrical plants were first installed aboard ship, lead incased cables, run in ordinary molding, were used almost entirely, and in case of iron ships the hull was frequently employed for the return circuit. The latter method soon passed out of use, for it not only increased the fire hazard, but was inefficient mechanically, and also liable to give rise to disturbing influences on the ship's compasses.

Lead incased conductors in ordinary molding were used on the first two United States men-of-war having electric plants—the Trenton and Omaha—but with unsatisfactory results in each case. In the latter ship, the electrical plant of which was installed by the writer in 1884, the lead incased port and starboard mains passed through holes bored in live oak knees, one hole to about each six feet of run, and the writer has a vivid recollection of the difficulties encountered in boring several hundred three-quarter and half inch holes through about eight inches of gnarled oak, very nearly as hard to pierce as some of the tougher metals. It is perhaps needless to say that the cost of labor and tools was no small item in the cost of installation.

Lead incased conductors were finally discarded, except in some special work, as the protection from injury to the insulation and from moisture, which the lead sheath was supposed to give, was found to be illusory. Dents caused short circuiting on the sheath of the conductors, while punctures, permitting the entrance of moisture, led to bad grounds as well as short circuits.

At the present day what may be called a composite system for the installation of the distributing conductors is employed. Equal security in all parts of the installation is the object kept in view, and to obtain this several systems are blended together as one. While molding and flexible conduits are used in the saloons and cabins, the conductors in the machinery spaces and holds are run in iron conduits, which are thoroughly insulated on the inside, and special fittings are employed in passing through the decks and bulkheads. Special water, tight switches, cutouts and fixtures are also used wherever there is exposure to the weather.—E. G. Bernard in Cassier's Magazine.

BRIDAL FAVORS.

An Ancient and Curious German Wedding Custom.

In The Ladies' Home Journal Max von Binzer writes of his experience as "A Page at the Berlin Court" upon the occasion of a double royal wedding and of the preceding and succeeding festivities. Describing an ancient and curious custom, he writes: "And now—after the wedding, dinner and ball—came the 'Fackeltanz.' Several of the highest officials entered the hall with flaming torches. A procession was formed, with the bride in the midst. A number of complicated polonaise figures were then executed, after which the line closed about the bride and groom and marched off as escort to the bridal chambers.

"As the doors of the bridal apartments closed upon the happy pair we found ourselves immediately next the entrance. We waited expectantly for the next feature, holding our advantageous position with some difficulty. In a few moments the doors flew open, and half a thousand silken garters, with the monograms embossed on the gold buckles, were thrown out by the ladies of honor. Court etiquette was for the nonce forgotten. Generals, courtiers, chamberlains and state ministers scrambled and fought with one another for these mementos. But we pages, rest assured, got the lion's share. I have several of these souvenirs now, although many were given away by me that night to beseeching dignitaries."

Wildcat and Porcupine.

A large wildcat that had gone hungry three days sneaked down the big beech ridge above Balygump, Me., with its face screwed into as ugly a sneer as ever a wildcat wore. Beyond the ridge, where the ground sank into a gullylike swamp, the wildcat found a fat porcupine on the ground. The cat evidently found the porcupine tempting to look on, for it promptly went on the hunt with all the craft it could exercise. Behind a hummock, along a snow ridge, over a fallen log and through a sprinkling of bush tops the cat made its way and approached the porcupine. Then it sprang and gripped its claws on its prey. It sought to roll the porcupine over so as to bite it on the belly. It succeeded only partially, and filled its jaws full of short quills from the porcupine's side. The porcupine died quickly, but the wildcat, with its jaws distended with the quills, could not eat the meat, being able only to lap up a little of the blood.

The agony to the wildcat was so great after awhile that the brute rolled over and over in the snow, finally forcing a quill through an eye and into its brain.—New York Sun.

The Venom Box Which Contains the Most Powerful Poison Known—The Needle That Does Its Deadly Work in a Silent and Perplexing Manner.

"Two of the most beautiful and at the same time murderous objects I have ever seen in all my travels I picked up in Paris during my trip there last summer," said J. V. Atkinson of Savannah to a friend.

"I bought both of them from an old gunsmith in the Quartier Latin, and he assured me they were, without doubt, the only ones in existence, as far as his knowledge of death dealing instruments went, and he also told me that he had purchased them of an old Spaniard who had spent most of his life in the South American countries.

"I am sure he must have had them made to his especial order, for, as I have already stated, during all my travels I have never seen anything that would in any way approach them for villainous, murderous purposes.

"The first, as you see, looks innocent enough, and when I ask you what you think it is you will reply."

"A silver matchbox," answered the reporter as he gingerly handled the beautifully chased silver object.

"Touch that spring."

At an easy touch the lid of the box flew open on a powerfully hinged spring and disclosed the interior, and in a compartment about one-half of the capacity of the box were a dozen wax matches.

"Now you'll find a tiny button on the side next you and near your thumb. Just press that lightly."

As the suggestion was followed a little, sharp pointed, creamy white, curved object popped into view from that portion of the box not occupied by the matches.

"What is that?"

"That," said Mr. Atkinson, "is not more nor less than the fore fang of the Crotalus horridus, the great American rattlesnake, and one of the most venomous of serpents known to ichthyologists. You will notice that the fang is sharp as a needle at its point; that it is slit for a distance up the middle, and that it is hollow. You will also observe that a fine, amber colored, jellylike substance is contained within the hollow of the fang. That is nothing less horrible than the venom of the crotalidae, and the rankest poison, the most deadly of agents known to man. A couple of scrapes on a man's hand or face mean a certain and a horrible death—nausea and vomiting, retching, convulsions, semiparalysis, complete paralysis, state of coma, death in a most horrible form and the swelling to horrible proportions of the corpse as it rapidly turns black from the virulence of the venom. You may take the fearful agent, bake it between bricks, freeze it between blocks of ice, and it will still retain its terrible power. You may inoculate a rat with the venom, and he will die in a few moments, a dog in five and a man in from ten minutes to an hour, according to the amount received and the condition of his system at the time. The blood of the first rat can be inoculated into a second, and the blood of the second into a third, and so on down through 100—yes, 200 subjects—without recourse to the original venom, and the last subject will die as quickly and convulsively as the first, for its virulence is absolutely fatal.

"You can readily see what a terrible weapon it would be in the hands of an unscrupulous villain. A scratch or two, and the deed would be done, while the victim would simply imagine that he had been scraped by a pin. Yet in a close fight with some of the despicable footpads and murderous thugs who are infesting your fair city I do not think I would have any scruples about using it on one of them myself.

"It would be difficult even for a first class physician to discover at the first sight just how the man met his death.

"Its companion piece, of devilish ingenuity, is a needle gun. Peculiar looking thing, is it not?" asked Mr. Atkinson as he passed a richly engraved and silver mounted object that looked like a cross between a miniature double barreled shotgun and a revolver to his friend, who handled it with extreme caution.

"That little gun is about five inches over all, and yet it contains within those chambers, in the boxlike part between those fine watch spring steel barrels and the pistol grip, enough of fiendish mischief to lay out a dozen strong men.

"The charge is a strong but powerful cartridge made of a highly explosive chemical which, by the peculiar construction of the chambers, makes so little noise that it could not be heard by a person ten feet away. The instrument of destruction is a bunch of fine cambric needles that have had their heads slightly flattened to offer resistance and catch the propelling force, and their points have lain in the very same sort of venom of which I spoke until they are thoroughly corroded with it.

"As they leave the gun they scatter and penetrate to the most vital spots, where their terrible work is quickly done. Nothing short of a post mortem examination of the most rigid kind would betray the cause of death."—St. Louis Republic.

He Has a Reason.

"He really doesn't want to be famous?"
"That's what he says."
"Do you believe it?"
"Well, yes. I know him pretty well, and I know it's a matter of conscience with him."
"I don't believe I quite follow you."
"Why, he wouldn't like to feel that he was even indirectly responsible for all the lies that are sure to be told about a famous man after his death."—Chicago Post.

Hopeful.

The dry goods merchant was explaining the situation to the new drummer he had just employed.

"Your predecessor," he said, "has gotten his business all tangled up, and if you take his place you will have a difficult task getting order out of chaos."

"I don't know who Chaos is," cheerfully replied the drummer, "but I bet I'll sell him a bill of goods if I have to hang on to him a week."—Detroit Free Press.

NO PATH THIS YEAR

But Wheelmen Will Not Abandon the Plan.

QUIET WORK DURING THE WINTER

Is Expected to Make Public Sentiment Lean Their Way—Their Influence Is Increasing—No Association Team—All the Baseball News.

The wheelmen who have been untiring in their efforts to have council make something of the hill road to East End, have reached the conclusion that nothing can be done with the project this season, but are by no means discouraged. They will not let the matter rest, but propose to keep it before the public for the remainder of the summer and during the winter. They argue that the number of riders is increasing every month, and not many years will pass before council is compelled to recognize their influence. Every serious accident in the city is regarded as an argument in their favor.

The Young Men's Christian association will not have a ball team in the field this year. The absence of available material is the cause. Director Morris is completing arrangements for the relay races.

The Tombstones have decided not to skin the diamond at Spring Grove. It will be enlarged and made the regulation size.

A baseball team is being organized to play the East Liverpool club at Rock Spring June 15.

The J. G. Richards baseball team of Braddock, well and favorably known in this city, has become the Young Men's Christian association club of Wilmerding. Headquarters have been changed to that town.

Winnie Mercer yesterday held St. Louis down to six hits, and won his game 6 to 0. He also had three hits to his credit.

McNicol yesterday played a good game at short for Toledo, and had one hit and three assists. Folly their new shortstop has arrived, and it is probable he will play in the game today.

WILL CARRY DOGS FREE.

The Pennsylvania Company Now Consider Them Baggage.

The Pennsylvania company has issued an order that in the future dogs will be carried as passengers' baggage. Heretofore the express companies having the contracts with the various railroads have claimed the right to carry canines at express rates; or in other words at double the regular rates. The consequence of this action has been that dog fanciers and breeders have, to a great extent, ceased sending their dogs to distant bench shows.

MANY NEW SHAPES

Will Be Put on the Market by Local Potteries.

The modelers are all busy preparing new shapes for the potteries. While there is no radical change in design, nor is there anything particularly striking, there will be enough originality and beauty to make many of them what is known as good sellers. A number of potteries will have new designs for the fall trade. In spite of the delay in the enactment of the tariff, a good trade is expected.

LOAFERS AGAIN

They Filled the Business Section Last Night.

Street loafing has become almost as much of a nuisance as ever. Washington street between Fifth and Sixth was last night the resting place of many, while every corner in the Diamond had more than its usual quota. The police almost succeeded in breaking up the practice, but it seems to have gained a new start.

SHIP LIGHTING.

How Electrical Appliances Are Now Utilized For This Purpose.

When electrical plants were first installed aboard ship, lead incased cables, run in ordinary molding, were used almost entirely, and in case of iron ships the hull was frequently employed for the return circuit. The latter method soon passed out of use, for it not only increased the fire hazard, but was inefficient mechanically, and also liable to give rise to disturbing influences on the ship's compasses.

Lead incased conductors in ordinary molding were used on the first two United States men-of-war having electric plants—the Trenton and Omaha—but with unsatisfactory results in each case. In the latter ship, the electrical plant of which was installed by the writer in 1884, the lead incased port and starboard mains passed through holes bored in live oak knees, one hole to about each six feet of run, and the writer has a vivid recollection of the difficulties encountered in boring several hundred three-quarter and half inch holes through about eight inches of gnarled oak, very nearly as hard to pierce as some of the tougher metals. It is perhaps needless to say that the cost of labor and tools was no small item in the cost of installation.

Lead incased conductors were finally discarded, except in some special work, as the protection from injury to the insulation and from moisture, which the lead sheath was supposed to give, was found to be illusory. Dents caused short circuiting on the sheath of the conductors, while punctures, permitting the entrance of moisture, led to bad grounds as well as short circuits.

At the present day what may be called a composite system for the installation of the distributing conductors is employed. Equal security in all parts of the installation is the object kept in view, and to obtain this several systems are blended together as one. While molding and flexible conduits are used in the saloons and cabins, the conductors in the machinery spaces and holds are run in iron conduits, which are thoroughly insulated on the inside, and special fittings are employed in passing through the decks and bulkheads. Special water, tight switches, cutouts and fixtures are also used wherever there is exposure to the weather.—E. G. Bernard in Cassier's Magazine.

BRIDAL FAVORS.

An Ancient and Curious German Wedding Custom.

In The Ladies' Home Journal Max von Binzer writes of his experience as "A Page at the Berlin Court" upon the occasion of a double royal wedding and of the preceding and succeeding festivities. Describing an ancient and curious custom, he writes: "And now—after the wedding, dinner and ball—came the 'Fackeltanz.' Several of the highest officials entered the hall with flaming torches. A procession was formed, with the bride in the midst. A number of complicated polonaise figures were then executed, after which the line closed about the bride and groom and marched out as escort to the bridal chambers.

"As the doors of the bridal apartments closed upon the happy pair we found ourselves immediately next the entrance. We waited expectantly for the next feature, holding our advantageous position with some difficulty. In a few moments the doors flew open, and half a thousand silken garters, with the monograms embossed on the gold buckles, were thrown out by the ladies of honor. Court etiquette was for the nonce forgotten. Generals, courtiers, chamberlains and state ministers scrambled and fought with one another for these mementos. But we pages, rest assured, got the lion's share. I have several of these souvenirs now, although many were given away by me that night to beseeching dignitaries."

Wildcat and Porcupine.

A large wildcat that had gone hungry three days sneaked down the big beech ridge above Balygump, Me., with its face screwed into as ugly a sneer as ever a wildcat wore. Beyond the ridge, where the ground sank into a gullylike swamp, the wildcat found a fat porcupine on the ground. The cat evidently found the porcupine tempting to look on, for it promptly went on the hunt with all the craft it could exercise. Behind a hummock, along a snow ridge, over a fallen log and through a sprinkling of bush tops the cat made its way and approached the porcupine. Then it sprang and gripped its claws on its prey. It sought to roll the porcupine over so as to bite it on the belly. It succeeded only partially, and filled its jaws full of short quills from the porcupine's side. The porcupine died quickly, but the wildcat, with its jaws distended with the quills, could not eat the meat, being able only to lap up a little of the blood.

The agony to the wildcat was so great after awhile that the brute rolled over and over in the snow, finally forcing a quill through an eye and into its brain.—New York Sun.

SIXTEEN SMALL HOLES

Allowed the Air to Escape From Two Tires.

IT WAS DONE IN A MINUTE

A Well Known Young Man Left His Bicycle In Fifth Street, and When He Returned the Crime Had Been Committed—Someone Preparing For the Pen.

Some evil-minded individual in this town is preparing a cell for himself in the penitentiary. He may run his course for a time, but it will not last long. The wheelmen will find him, and the courts will do the rest.

Last night a well-known young man, who, for reasons best known to himself, will not allow his name to be made public, placed his bicycle in Fifth street, while he entered a house nearby. He was not absent more than a few minutes, but when he returned the tires were flat, all the air had escaped, and for riding purposes the wheel was useless. Investigation developed that some fiendishly inclined party had used a pin and there were six holes in the front tire and ten in the rear. It had all been done in a minute, the party escaping without being seen. An individual who has been suspected of placing tacks in the streets was seen in that vicinity not long before the discovery, and it is believed the guilty one can be apprehended.

The incident cannot fail to cause interest among the wheelmen of the city. Since tacks placed in the lower part of the city caused so much damage a few weeks ago a number of wide awake riders have been keeping close watch for the guilty ones, and if found they will be prosecuted as far as the law will go. The offense is punishable by a term in the penitentiary, and not a short term either.

THEY GATHERED SCRAPS.

Little Children Who Foraged For the Family.

Last evening several barefoot children entered a Second street hotel, two of them carrying an old chip basket. They were gone a few minutes, and then emerged with the basket half full of bread and small pieces of meat. Walking to a restaurant in Broadway they added to their store. Another place was visited, and the basket was filled. One of the number, a child scarcely old enough to walk, had grown weary and began to cry. As though her sobs were not an uncommon occurrence the eldest of the party seated herself on the curb, and, taking the little one in her arms she rocked her thinly clad form to and fro until her sister was fast asleep. Then they went home.

A PIANO AND FLAG

Were Presented the Queen City by Cincinnati.

The new steamer, Queen City, was formally dedicated today at Cincinnati, and if the water continues at its present stage, it will pass this port next Sunday.

A piano and stand of colors were presented to the boat by the chamber of commerce, as a mark of appreciation of the complement bestowed upon the city in naming the new boat, and of the benefits to be derived from the business activity which her owners will encourage by placing her in the Cincinnati trade. The mayor of Cincinnati made the presentation speech.

THEY DID NOT MOVE.

Nothing Came of the Boom Enterprises.

It will interest parties who watched the boom enterprises promised for the city last winter when they know that the Alcania Tin company did not develop into a mighty industry, the window glass concern has not built a big plant, and the Windsor canning factory still lies silent and idle in its old location. Not a move was made after the Liverpool plans were abandoned.

BY NO MEANS DEAD

George Sebring, of Palestine, was in the city today on business. When questioned concerning the proposed pottery in Salem he had little to say, but acknowledged that the deal was not dead by any means. Beyond that he had nothing to say, answering the reporter's questions with a smile. He said that business in Palestine was very good.

WHAT FOGS ARE MADE OF.

Nebula Pulverea and Their Airy Relatives of Town and Country.

A convenient though not strictly scientific classification of fog types is sea or coast fog, valley or hill fog and town or dust fog. The last named has been given the euphonic designation nebula pulverea. It is an artificial rather than a natural condition. The Rev. Clement Ley, who gave a large portion of his life to cloud study, says, in his book, "Cloudland," that in some parts of the globe nebula pulverea is occasionally so thick as to obscure almost totally the sunlight, and in Abyssinia has led to the tradition that the plague or darkness in Egypt was in reality an unusual dust fog. The amount of moisture varies so much in different fogs that the terms "dry" and "wet" are used, the scientific name of the latter being nebula stillans. In wet fog the particles are apt to be larger than in dry fog. A still further division, due, we believe, to Robert H. Scott, is anticyclonic fog, or fog in which no rain falls, while the temperature, generally low in the morning, continues to rise during the day, and cyclonic fog, in which rain does occur, while the temperature remains about temporary.

Before leaving these town fogs we may notice the part played by them in affecting the health of the community. Mr. Scott has given figures showing the mortality from diseases of the respiratory system for some of the more memorable fogs of London. We have room for but one of the many periods he gives. From Jan. 26 to Feb. 6, 1880, London experienced eight days of fog. The average temperature at 8 o'clock in the morning was 26 degrees F. The total death rate was 48.1 per 1,000, a rate unequalled since the last cholera epidemic, and there were no less than 1,557 deaths from diseases of the respiratory organs.

It is not always an easy matter to trace direct relationship even where the statistics are carefully gathered, but there can be little doubt that these town fogs are unwholesome. Indirectly they affect the health of the community in a way few would imagine. A town fog is an excellent trap for noxious gases, holding them close to the ground. Dr. R. Barnes, studying this question, found, by inspection of gas plants near London, that in foggy weather the escaping gas was held in concentrated form in and near the works. There are other sources of contamination in foul emanations from the ground, sewers, etc. On clear, bright days, even if no wind is blowing, the law of diffusion of gases acts more effectively and helps disperse the gases. —Harper's.

Opportunities.

"In proportion as communities become more settled and populous, Philip," said Mr. Gratebar, "the great opportunities that exist in them fly higher and higher and become more and more difficult to capture. For this reason men often seek new fields, where the shooting is easier. But in this, Philip, as in everything else, one must exercise judgment. He must find a field in which game actually does exist, and one that is likely to produce such opportunities as he is able to turn to account. No snow shoveler, for example, should locate in the tropics. Nor could the best boat builder that ever lived reasonably expect to succeed in a desert, even though it were hundreds of miles in extent and he had a monopoly of the business."

"What I am endeavoring to point out to you, Philip, is that not all new fields are sure to yield a profit. As a matter of fact, many are quite barren. A man must find the right place, and the discernment that would enable him to do this would almost certainly qualify him to stay right here and fight with the giants."

"And that is just what I should advise you to do, Philip. Here is where the big game is to be found. But, as I have before in substance remarked, you must be prepared to meet it. Don't fool away your time waiting at a bear lick with a gun loaded for snipe, Philip." —New York Sun.

Saluting a Cat.

There is at least one place in the world where the cat was until recently held in high honor and received the attention due to one of so high a station in life. That place is India, where in a fortress the sentries invariably used to present arms to every cat that appeared on the scene.

The custom is accounted for by this singular anecdote, which comes from what appears to be good authority:

Some 50 years ago it happened that a very high English official died in an Indian fortress, at a place that is one of the centers of Brahmanic religion, and at the moment when the news of his death met the sepoy guard at the main gate a black cat rushed out of it.

The superstitious guard presented arms to the cat as a salute to the dying spirit of the powerful Englishman, and the coincidence took a firm hold upon the locality, that up to a few years ago neither exhortation nor orders could prevent a Hindoo sentry at that gate from presenting arms to any cat that passed out at night. —Harper's Round Table.

A sojourn at Winona Assembly Grounds at Eagle Lake, Ind., near Warsaw, on the Fort Wayne route, will prove a pleasant summer outing. This delightful resort is the site of the youngest of the Chautauqua assemblies, and its attractions combine facilities for recreation, entertainment, instruction and devotion.

Eagle Lake is a beautiful sheet of water, surrounded by several hundred acres of romantic woodland which covers one stretch of nearly two miles. The lake affords opportunity for aquatic pastimes, the boating, bathing and fishing being excellent. In addition to numerous row-boats there are several pleasure steamers on the lake.

The shady grounds are occupied by many pretty cottages and summer homes of persons who annually enjoy the beauties of the place, strengthening body in the invigorating atmosphere and enriching the mind by the special advantages the summer school offers.

A fine park has been laid out on the shore of the lake. A large auditorium, amphitheatre, college halls, hotels and restaurant have also been constructed on the grounds for the accommodation of visitors. There is also a race track and space set aside for out-door athletic sports.

In addition to the Presbyterian General Assembly which will be in session on the Assembly Grounds from May 20 to June 2, a number of other large meetings will be held on the grounds during the summer of 1897, including the Indiana State Sunday School Convention, Western Association of Writers, Indiana State W. C. T. U., Indiana Y. M. C. A., Encampment, National Medical Society, Boys' Brigade, and Indiana State Christian Endeavor Convention.

Excursion tickets to Eagle Lake will be on sale via Pennsylvania Lines during the summer season. Details regarding rates, time of trains, etc., may be ascertained by addressing the nearest passenger or ticket agent of the Pennsylvania lines, or by applying to F. Van Dusen, chief assistant general passenger agent, Pittsburg, Pa. Full information concerning the Assembly and Summer School, cost of entertainment, etc., may be secured upon application to Secretary Sol. C. Dickey, Eagle Lake, Ind. *

Her Tribute to Lucy Stone.

Mrs. Mary E. Holmes, the faithful and efficient president of the Illinois Equal Suffrage association, has been obliged by domestic cares and duties to resign her official position. She will be greatly missed, but will continue to advise and plan for the cause. In a private letter she writes:

"If dear Lucy Stone was on the earth, I should explain to her first of all why I have resigned my state position. She was and is my inspiration and god-mother in suffrage work. She was such a good wife and mother that I feel sure she would tell me to do my duty to the home before any other. I hope I can return to the work at some future time, but now heart and brain must be given to the home and home interests. I shall still do what little I can for our beloved cause and shall watch the battle with great interest."

Expert Knowledge of Dressed Poultry.

"They say," said a citizen, "that the expert poultryman knows at sight just where a dressed chicken is from. Of course he knows a Philadelphia chicken when he sees it, but they tell me that of western poultry, for instance, he can tell at a glance whether a chicken comes from Ohio or from Illinois, and so on. It's a fine thing, no doubt, to be able to do this, and still I should be satisfied to be without this refinement of knowledge concerning the chicken territorially if I could tell, before buying it, whether it was tough or not." —New York Sun.

Excursion Tickets to Pittsburg

Will be sold via Pennsylvania lines June 12, 13 and 14 account Jr. O. U. A. M. national council. Low rate open to public generally. For details apply to the nearest ticket agent of Pennsylvania lines. *

Low Rates.

Special reductions in fare over the Pennsylvania lines will be granted for numerous events to take place this summer in various parts of the United States, in addition to local excursions. Some of the points to which tickets will be sold and dates of sale are as follows:

To Nashville, Tenn., daily to October 15, for Tennessee Centennial and International exposition.

To Winona assembly grounds, Eagle Lake, (near Warsaw, Ind.,) May 15 to August 31, for annual assembly and summer school.

To Pittsburg, June 12, 13 and 14, account national council, Junior American Mechanics.

To Celeron (Chautauqua Lake,) July 11 and 12, account Photographers Association of America.

To Toronto, Canada, July 13, 14 and 15, for Epworth League National convention.

To Minneapolis, July 3 and 4, for national meeting, B. P. O. Elks.

To Chattanooga, July 13, 14 and 15, account Baptist Young Peoples' union, of America.

To Detroit, July 12 and 13, for National Republican League meeting.

To Indianapolis, August 17 and 18, for Young People's Christian union annual convention.

To Indianapolis, September 8 and 9, for National Encampment Sons of Veterans.

The reduced rates over the Pennsylvania lines will not be restricted to members of the organizations mentioned, but may be taken advantage of by the public generally. Excursion tickets may be obtained at ticket offices on the Pennsylvania system and will also be sold over this route by connecting railroads. Any Pennsylvania line ticket or passenger agent will furnish desired information concerning rates, time of trains, return limit, and other details, to all applicants, or the same may be obtained by addressing Samuel Moody, assistant general passenger agent, Pittsburg, Pa.

New Entrance to New York.

All are convenient locations; Cortlandt street and Desbrosses street, in the downtown district, and Twenty-third street in the uptown district. The latter entrance will be formally opened May 16, when two new, commodious ferryboats, double-deckers, constructed especially for the Pennsylvania lines and furnished and fitted in up-to-date style, will be placed in service between the Jersey City station and Twenty-third street, connecting with all inbound and outbound trains over the Pennsylvania system, the same as the boats running between that station and Cortlandt street and Desbrosses street, which will also continue in the service.

The Pennsylvania lines' three entrances into New York enable passengers to quickly reach the business portion in the lower end of the city, as well as the hotels and business blocks in the very heart of the great metropolis. The ride across the river is a delightful and refreshing termination to an enjoyable trip. All through trains from the west, over the Pennsylvania lines, land passengers in New York between 9:30 a. m., and 9:30 p. m., treating them to a grand view of the city's water front; its extensive docks where at almost any time may be seen ships of many nations. The wonderful panorama gives visitors a slight idea of the magnitude of New York. The new Twenty-third street ferry line is particularly noteworthy in this respect. *

Summer Outing.

The principal places of summer sojourn along the Atlantic ocean in the Alleghenies, the Adirondacks, Catskills, and mountains of the east, and in the lake region and Northern Michigan and the northwest, may be readily reached over the Pennsylvania lines.

Special information regarding the leading resorts and the advantages enjoyed in journeying to them over the Pennsylvania route has been compiled and printed in convenient form. The matter is profusely illustrated with photographic reproductions of seashore scenes and includes views at Atlantic City, Cape May, Long Branch and other resorts along the Atlantic coast; also of Cresson, Bedford Springs, and romantic mountain retreats, and of Petoskey, Mackinac, and the summer havens in Michigan and the northwest.

Persons contemplating summer outing trips will find it a valuable guide in shaping preliminaries. Copies may be obtained by addressing D. C. MacWaters, district passenger agent, Pittsburg, Pa.

On the River.

The river is falling slowly, and the marks now show 7.10 feet. Passed up—Bedford, Lorena, Ben Hur and Defender. No down packets.

SIXTEEN SMALL HOLES

Allowed the Air to Escape From Two Tires.

IT WAS DONE IN A MINUTE

A Well Known Young Man Left His Bicycle In Fifth Street, and When He Returned the Crime Had Been Committed—Someone Preparing For the Pen.

Some evil-minded individual in this town is preparing a cell for himself in the penitentiary. He may run his course for a time, but it will not last long. The wheelmen will find him, and the courts will do the rest.

Last night a well-known young man, who, for reasons best known to himself, will not allow his name to be made public, placed his bicycle in Fifth street, while he entered a house nearby. He was not absent more than a few minutes, but when he returned the tires were flat, all the air had escaped, and for riding purposes the wheel was useless. Investigation developed that some fiendishly inclined party had used a pin and there were six holes in the front tire and ten in the rear. It had all been done in a minute, the party escaping without being seen. An individual who has been suspected of placing tacks in the streets was seen in that vicinity not long before the discovery, and it is believed the guilty one can be apprehended.

The incident cannot fail to cause interest among the wheelmen of the city. Since tacks placed in the lower part of the city caused so much damage a few weeks ago a number of wide awake riders have been keeping close watch for the guilty ones, and if found they will be prosecuted as far as the law will go. The offense is punishable by a term in the penitentiary, and not a short term either.

THEY GATHERED SCRAPS.

Little Children Who Foraged For the Family.

Last evening several barefoot children entered a Second street hotel, two of them carrying an old chip basket. They were gone a few minutes, and then emerged with the basket half full of bread and small pieces of meat. Walking to a restaurant in Broadway they added to their store. Another place was visited, and the basket was filled. One of the number, a child scarcely old enough to walk, had grown weary and began to cry. As though her sobs were not an uncommon occurrence the eldest of the party seated herself on the curb and, taking her tiny lad in her arms she rocked her thinly clad form to and fro until her sister was fast asleep. Then they went home.

A PIANO AND FLAG

Were Presented the Queen City by Cincinnati.

The new steamer, Queen City, was formally dedicated today at Cincinnati, and if the water continues at its present stage, it will pass this port next Sunday.

A piano and stand of colors were presented to the boat by the chamber of commerce, as a mark of appreciation of the complement bestowed upon the city in naming the new boat, and of the benefits to be derived from the business activity which her owners will encourage by placing her in the Cincinnati trade. The mayor of Cincinnati made the presentation speech.

THEY DID NOT MOVE.

Nothing Came of the Boom Enterprises.

It will interest parties who watched the boom enterprises promised for the city last winter when they did not develop into a mighty industry, the window glass concern has not built a big plant, and the Windor canning factory still lies silent and idle in its old location. Not a move was made after the Liverpool plans were abandoned.

BY NO MEANS DEAD

Is That Project For a Pottery In Salem.

George Sebring, of Palestine, was in the city today on business. When questioned concerning the proposed pottery in Salem he had little to say, but acknowledged that the deal was not dead by any means. Beyond that he had nothing to say, answering the reporter's questions with a smile. He said that business in Palestine was very good.

A Special Meeting.

Trades Council will Friday evening hold a special meeting at city hall, to complete arrangements for the library picnic.

WHAT FOGS ARE MADE OF.

Nebula Pulverea and Their Airy Relatives of Town and Country.

A convenient though not strictly scientific classification of fog types is sea or coast fog, valley or hill fog and town or dust fog. The last named has been given the euphonic designation nebula pulverea. It is an artificial rather than a natural condition. The Rev. Clement Ley, who gave a large portion of his life to cloud study, says, in his book, "Cloudland," that in some parts of the globe nebula pulverea is occasionally so thick as to obscure almost totally the sunlight, and in Abyssinia has led to the tradition that the plague or darkness in Egypt was in reality an unusual dust fog. The amount of moisture varies so much in different fogs that the terms "dry" and "wet" are used, the scientific name of the latter being nebula stillans. In wet fog the particles are apt to be larger than in dry fog. A still further division, due, we believe, to Robert H. Scott, is anticyclonic fog, or fog in which no rain falls, while the temperature, generally low in the morning, continues to rise during the day, and cyclonic fog, in which rain does occur, while the temperature remains about temporary.

Before leaving these town fogs we may notice the part played by them in affecting the health of the community. Mr. Scott has figures showing the mortality from diseases of the respiratory system for some of the more memorable fogs of London. We have room for but one of the many periods he gives. From Jan. 26 to Feb. 6, 1880, London experienced eight days of fog. The average temperature at 8 o'clock in the morning was 48.1 degrees F. The total death rate was 26.1 per 1,000, a rate unequalled since the last cholera epidemic, and there were no less than 1,557 deaths from diseases of the respiratory organs.

It is not always an easy matter to trace direct relationship even where the statistics are carefully gathered, but there can be little doubt that these town fogs are unwholesome. Indirectly they affect the health of the community in a way few would imagine. A town fog is an excellent trap for noxious gases, holding them close to the ground. Dr. R. Barnes, studying this question, found, by inspection of gas plants near London, that in foggy weather the escaping gas was held in concentrated form in and near the works. There are other sources of contamination in foul emanations from the ground, sewers, etc. On clear, bright days, even if no wind is blowing, the law of diffusion of gases acts more effectively and helps disperse the gases.—Harper's.

Opportunities.

"In proportion as communities become more settled and populous, Philip," said Mr. Gratebar, "the great opportunities that exist in them fly higher and higher and become more and more difficult to capture. For this reason men often seek new fields, where the shooting is easier. But in this, Philip, as in everything else, one must exercise judgment. He must find a field in which game actually does exist, and one that is likely to produce such opportunities as he is able to turn to account. No snow shoveler, for example, should locate in the tropics. Nor could the best boat builder that ever lived reasonably expect to succeed in a desert, even though it were hundreds of miles in extent and he had a monopoly of the business."

"What I am endeavoring to point out to you, Philip, is that not all new fields are sure to yield a profit. As a matter of fact, many are quite barren. A man must find the right place, and the discernment that would enable him to do this would almost certainly qualify him to stay right here and fight with the giants."

"And that is just what I should advise you to do, Philip. Here is where the big game is to be found. But, as I have before in substance remarked, you must be prepared to meet it. Don't fool away your time waiting at a bear lick with a gun loaded for snipe, Philip."—New York Sun.

Saluting a Cat.

There is at least one place in the world where the cat was until recently held in high honor and received the attention due to one of so high a station in life. That place is India, where in a fortress the sentries invariably used to present arms to every cat that appeared on the scene.

The custom is accounted for by this singular anecdote, which comes from what appears to be good authority:

Some 50 years ago it happened that a very high English official died in an Indian fortress, at a place that is one of the centers of Brahmanic religion, and at the moment when the news of his death met the sepoy guard at the main gate a black cat rushed out of it.

The superstitious guard presented arms to the cat as a salute to the dying spirit of the powerful Englishman, and the coincidence took a firm hold upon the locality, that up to a few years ago neither exhortation nor orders could prevent a Hindoo sentry at that gate from presenting arms to any cat that passed out at night.—Harper's Round Table.

A Pretty Resort.

A sojourn at Winona Assembly Grounds at Eagle Lake, Ind., near Warsaw, on the Fort Wayne route, will prove a pleasant summer outing. This delightful resort is the site of the youngest of the Chautauqua assemblies, and its attractions combine facilities for recreation, entertainment, instruction and devotion.

Eagle Lake is a beautiful sheet of water, surrounded by several hundred acres of romantic woodland which covers one stretch of nearly two miles. The lake affords opportunity for aquatic pastimes, the boating, bathing and fishing being excellent. In addition to numerous rowboats there are several pleasure steamers on the lake.

The shady grounds are occupied by many pretty cottages and summer homes of persons who annually enjoy the beauties of the place, strengthening body in the invigorating atmosphere and enriching the mind by the special advantages the summer school offers.

A fine park has been laid out on the shore of the lake. A large auditorium, amphitheatre, college halls, hotels and restaurant have also been constructed on the grounds for the accommodation of visitors. There is also a race track and space set aside for out-door athletic sports.

In addition to the Presbyterian General Assembly which will be in session on the Assembly Grounds from May 20 to June 2, a number of other large meetings will be held on the grounds during the summer of 1897, including the Indiana State Sunday School Convention, Western Association of Writers, Indiana State W. C. T. U., Indiana Y. M. C. A., Encampment, National Medical Society, Boys' Brigade, and Indiana State Christian Endeavor Convention.

Excursion tickets to Eagle Lake will be on sale via Pennsylvania Lines during the summer season. Details regarding rates, time of trains, etc., may be ascertained by addressing the nearest passenger or ticket agent of the Pennsylvania lines, or by applying to F. Van Dusen, chief assistant general passenger agent, Pittsburg, Pa. Full information concerning the Assembly and Summer School, cost of entertainment, etc., may be secured upon application to Secretary Sol. C. Dickey, Eagle Lake, Ind. *

Her Tribute to Lucy Stone.

Mrs. Mary E. Holmes, the faithful and efficient president of the Illinois Equal Suffrage association, has been obliged by domestic cares and duties to resign her official position. She will be greatly missed, but will continue to advise and plan for the cause. In a private letter she writes:

"If dear Lucy Stone was on the earth, I should explain to her first of all why I have resigned my state position. She was and is my inspiration and god-mother in suffrage work. She was such a good wife and mother that I feel sure she would tell me to do my duty to the home before any other. I hope I can return to the work at some future time, but now heart and brain must be given to the home and home interests. I shall still do what little I can for our beloved cause and shall watch the battle with great interest."

Expert Knowledge of Dressed Poultry.

"They say," said a citizen, "that the expert poultryman knows at sight just where a dressed chicken is from. Of course he knows a Philadelphia chicken when he sees it, but they tell me that of western poultry, for instance, he can tell at a glance whether a chicken comes from Ohio or from Illinois, and so on. It's a fine thing, no doubt, to be able to do this, and still I should be satisfied to do without this refinement of knowledge concerning the chicken territorially if I could tell, before buying it, whether it was tough or not."—New York Sun.

The reduced rates over the Pennsylvania lines will not be restricted to members of the organizations mentioned, but may be taken advantage of by the public generally. Excursion tickets may be obtained at ticket offices on the Pennsylvania system and will also be sold over this route by connecting railways. Any Pennsylvania line ticket or passenger agent will furnish desired information concerning rates, time of trains, return limit, and other details, to all applicants, or the same may be obtained by addressing Samuel Moody, assistant general passenger agent, Pittsburg, Pa.

New Entrance to New York.

All are convenient locations; Cortlandt street and Desbrosses street, in the downtown district, and Twenty-third street in the uptown district. The latter entrance will be formally opened May 16, when two new, commodious ferryboats, double-deckers, constructed especially for the Pennsylvania lines and furnished and fitted in up-to-date style, will be placed in service between the Jersey City station and Twenty-third street, connecting with all inbound and outbound trains over the Pennsylvania system, the same as the boats running between Cortlandt street and Desbrosses street, which will also continue in the service.

The Pennsylvania lines' three entrances into New York enable passengers to quickly reach the business portion in the lower end of the city, as well as the hotels and business blocks in the very heart of the great metropolis. The ride across the river is a delightful and refreshing termination to an enjoyable trip. All through trains from the west, over the Pennsylvania lines, land passengers in New York between 9:30 a. m. and 9:30 p. m., treating them to a grand view of the city's water front; its extensive docks where at almost any time may be seen ships of many nations. The wonderful panorama gives visitors a slight idea of the magnitude of New York. The new Twenty-third street ferry line is particularly noteworthy in this respect. *

Summer Outing.

The principal places of summer sojourn along the Atlantic ocean in the Alleghenies, the Adirondacks, Catskills, and mountains of the east, and in the lake region and Northern Michigan and the northwest, may be readily reached over the Pennsylvania lines.

Special information regarding the leading resorts and the advantages enjoyed in journeying to them over the Pennsylvania route has been compiled and printed in convenient form. The matter is profusely illustrated with photographic reproductions of seashore scenes and includes views at Atlantic City, Cape May, Long Branch and other resorts along the Atlantic coast; also of Cresson, Bedford Springs, and romantic mountain retreats, and of Petoskey, Mackinac, and the summer havens in Michigan and the northwest.

Persons contemplating summer outing trips will find it a valuable guide in shaping preliminaries. Copies may be obtained by addressing D. C. MacWaters, district passenger agent, Pittsburg, Pa.

On the River.

The river is falling slowly, and the marks now show 7.10 feet. Passed up—Bedford, Lorena, Ben Hur and Defender. No down packets.

TAKEN HOME DEAD.
The Sad Death of an East End Child In Wellsville.
The young son of Mrs. John S. Smith, East End, died last night at the home of Mrs. Farrel, in Wellsville. Monday afternoon Mrs. Smith left for a visit with her mother. While on her way down the child developed signs of a severe attack of measles, and it was thought best to not risk the journey home. The funeral will take place tomorrow.

Municipal Time at Glasgow.
One of the most interesting of Glasgow enterprises is what may be described as municipal time for the entire city. Some years ago the experiment was tried of placing municipal clocks in prominent positions all over Glasgow and regulating them by synchronization. The present scheme is much more elaborate and is nothing less than the establishment of a system of standard time, by means of electrically controlled clocks, regulated every second from the stellar clock at the observatory. A regulating clock, directly controlled from the observatory, has been placed in the city chambers, and this in turn controls three circuits of public clocks at various points in the city. In the meantime only about a dozen clocks have been provided, but if the trial proves successful the corporation intends to erect from 200 to 800 18 inch dials, thus providing a reliable system of standard time for all parts of the city. This extension of the circuit will involve the laying of 61 miles of wire. It is hoped also to include time keeping in private houses. —Westminster Gazette.

Paralyzed Him.
"Marriage," said the young passenger, "marriage always steadies a man. In fact, he seems to have more control over himself."
And the weary looking man with the armful of bundles could only say to himself: "Control of himself! Great Scott!" —Cincinnati Enquirer.

THE HOME OF PAYNE.
DWELLING PLACE OF THE AUTHOR OF THE MOST FAMOUS BALLAD.

Lucy Cleveland Writes Feelingly About the Last Place That John Howard Payne Ever Knew as His "Home, Sweet Home."
"You ought to see it, lady!"
My quaint Amagansett charioteer pointed with his whip in the direction of an antique mansion half hidden in the shadows that the elm trees threw across its portal.

I had driven over to old East Hampton for an autumn afternoon's pleasure along its elm embowered street of 100 years. Stretching from one antique windmill to another, each the somber guardian of graves, each the warden of the old village cemeteries, this grand old Main street of East Hampton unrolls its green ribbon of verdure the length of the little town and tempts the tourist to a lazy, lovely loitering in the sherry colored sunset in the sanguine air of seas. Afar the boom of the infinite ocean called. The arms of the old windmills tipped with the last tapestry of day, yearning aloft above the little graveyards, suggested the forever beyond the scattered white line of frozen sorrow far below.

"Yes, you ought to see it, mum!" And, "mum" consenting, my charioteer stopped at the antique threshold of the East Hampton dwelling. It was the house where John Howard Payne, author of the ballad that has sung itself into the heart of the world, passed his boyhood.

It is a modest two story dwelling, standing a little way back from the village street, of frame, shingled and gable roofed. Though it has received, from time to time, some smart adornment, the old house keeps its ancient, soothing spell as you face it from the main street. I know of nothing so quaint out of old New England. On one side of the doorway a board placard, weather beaten by time, mellowed by the years, fingered by the masses and pecked at by the little birds flying out for aye from their home, sweet home beneath the old gray eaves. The quaint placard tells you that within are

The town clerk,
The Bank of East Hampton,
The village notary,
and, as I learned afterward,
The undertaker
and
The furniture dealer,

all in one piece, or in one person—the genial owner today of the old house by the wayside.

Step in—but you won't go far afield or afoot, for the old staircase blocks the way. It winds and beckons up. It is thoroughly Revolutionary. It winds up so that you wonder it doesn't go off at once and play a tune. Ah, you are in the upstairs now! The house is a double house, as we say. But then all the old dwellings of long ago were "double." Did you ever think of that? "Home, sweet homes" and married loves and heartsheds. Not apartments, like pianos, on the installment system; not skyscrapers attempting that old plain of Shinar's tall ambitions; not "homes" whence you sallied to get your very dinner and when you got back thanked God up 13 flights that you didn't die from menus and messes. But it is down stairs in the kitchen that the most charming bit is found. This kitchen seems older than the Revolution. It is Cinderellian. In one moment, as you step across its threshold, you are transported with a fairy waft and a fairy wand into the days and the ways that are older than that dear Mother Goose—into the days of Mother Wise. Mother Wise made all the fairy stories in the beginning, do you know? And Mother Wise lived in Egypt 6,000 years before we opened our wise eyelids. And Mother Wise knew Cinderella by heart and by head and wrote down all about her dear little slipper in the vocabulary of the Pharaohs, older than the great pyramid.

As you step into the antique kitchen in the house of John Howard Payne you almost expect to see an ancient Egyptian stalk around the corner and Cheops' sacred pussy cat in a hieroglyphic attitude on the hearth. How quaint—how quaint it is! Didn't I hear little Cinderella's laugh and see those dear little plump hands clapped together with joy? And is that glow flooding window and wall the silver ether that floats around the fairy and dissolves, slowly, in a revolving, radiant rainbow, into colors that the fairy takes and stars in the blue of her eyes and the frank, fresh cherry of her lips?

Really it is all so unreal that it frets you to be told that that is a Revolutionary musket hanging over the old, old fireplace. You mistook it for a club that those grand old Bible fellows brandished when they went down into Egypt and had a fight. How pert and new 1776 is!

It is sorrowful to think that, after he closed the latch of his old sweet home and heard for the last time the clink of the closing door and went out to face the world, John Howard Payne had no home. —Lucy Cleveland in New York Home Journal.

The principal defense of the Dutch in the war with Alva was found in the character of their country. Small bastions, long curtain walls and very wide ditches filled with water were the characteristics of a Dutch fortification.

COCOONS THAT JUMP.
They Can Throw Themselves Several Inches Into the Air.

The curious movements of jumping beans have lately attracted some attention, though to style the spasmodic jerks of the beans jumps is to court disappointment. Some "jumping cocoons," described by Dr. D. Sharp in The Entomologist were, however, remarkably good athletes, for they could spring out of a small vessel, such as a tumbler, in which they were placed. These cocoons were from South Africa, but in spite of their exceptional gymnastic efficiency Dr. Sharp hardened his heart and sacrificed them upon the altar of science, in the hope of discovering something unusual that would explain the powers of jumping.

The cocoons looked like a piece of oval pottery, about 5 millimeters long, and having a rough surface. In each of the two investigated a pupa was found. The two were similar in every respect, and they no doubt belonged to the larva that made the cocoons. "This little pupa," says Dr. Sharp, "is shut up in a remarkably hard, thick cocoon, and it has to get out. Nature has not provided it with caustic potash for the purpose, but has endowed it with a mechanism of complex perfection to accomplish this little object. On the front of the head it has a sharp, chisel edge, and with this it has to cut through the pottery, contracting itself to the utmost in the posterior part of the cocoon and retaining itself in this position by the hooks on the mobile part of the body. It is a condition of elastic tension in consequence of the other side of the body being so differently formed and immobile.

"Therefore, releasing the hold of the hooks, the pupa is discharged forward, and the chisel piece strikes the front part of the cocoon. Repeating this an enormous number of times, a circle may be gradually inscribed on the inside of the far end of the cocoon, which gives way when sufficiently weakened and the insect becomes free. In both the specimens the inside of the cocoon is about half cut through. Either this is done as the result of a prolonged series of wriggles or of shocks such as I have described. It is by no means improbable that the early part of the performance is carving the groove by wriggling, the latter part knocking it off by jumping against it." The pupa is thus a most interesting one to entomologists. The order of insects to which it belongs appears to be somewhat uncertain, but Dr. Sharp thinks it will prove to be an anomalous lepidopterous insect allied to trichoptera, and possibly somewhere near to adela.

Enjoyable.
"Do you really enjoy shooting?"
"Why, yes, of course," said the dear girl, who had lately bought a light rifle and a lovely pair of hunting bloomers. "Every time I manage to kill a rabbit or a poor little bird I have just the loveliest cry imaginable." —Indianapolis Journal.

The funeral of Henry T. Bradley will take place from his late residence in Washington street Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock, Rev. O. S. Reed officiating. Interment will be made at Riverview.

Miss Jeanne Tarr left today for St. Ignace, Mich., where she will join the "Pay Train" company. She is taking the leading part and is rapidly making a name for herself.

This morning in an up town hardware store the gasoline in a tinner's fire pot caught fire. The proprietor threw it into the street and an explosion occurred. There was no damage beyond frightening the entire neighborhood.

Miss Bailey is the name of the young lady who had her dress cut last Saturday evening. She was standing watching the Salvation Army. She has no clue to the culprit, and did not discover her dress was ruined until she reached home.

Strawberry Festival.
The first strawberry festival of the season will be given at the rink on Saturday, June 12, by the young ladies of the Home. You are all invited to come and help the good work along. Tickets for sale at the door. Admission, 10 cents.

TAKEN HOME DEAD.
The Sad Death of an East End Child In Wellsville.

The young son of Mrs. John S. Smith, East End, died last night at the home of Mrs. Farrel, in Wellsville. Monday afternoon Mrs. Smith left for a visit with her mother. While on her way down the child developed signs of a severe attack of measles, and it was thought best to not risk the journey home. The funeral will take place tomorrow.

Municipal Time at Glasgow.
One of the most interesting of Glasgow enterprises is what may be described as municipal time for the entire city. Some years ago the experiment was tried of placing municipal clocks in prominent positions all over Glasgow and regulating them by synchronization. The present scheme is much more elaborate and is nothing less than the establishment of a system of standard time, by means of electrically controlled clocks, regulated every second from the stellar clock at the observatory. A regulating clock, directly controlled from the observatory, has been placed in the city chambers, and this in turn controls three circuits of public clocks at various points in the city. In the meantime only about a dozen clocks have been provided, but if the trial proves successful the corporation intends to erect from 200 to 800 18 inch dials, thus providing a reliable system of standard time for all parts of the city. This extension of the circuit will involve the laying of 61 miles of wire. It is hoped also to include time keeping in private houses.—Westminster Gazette.

Paralyzed Him.
"Marriage," said the young passenger, "marriage always steadies a man. In fact, he seems to have more control over himself."

And the weary looking man with the armful of bundles could only say to himself: "Control of himself! Great Scott!"—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Attended a Picnic.
The local branch of the Ladies' Catholic Mutual Benefit association attended a reunion picnic at Rock Point today. They will return at 8 o'clock this evening.

Mashed a Wheel.
A runaway team in the Diamond, last evening, ran down a bicycle rider and smashed his wheel. His name could not be learned. He was uninjured.

Postponed a Game.
The game of ball to have been played between the Thompson and Sebring teams was postponed, to be played next Saturday.

More Music.
Three New York street musicians arrived in town this morning. They will remain in town about a week.

THE HOME OF PAYNE.
DWELLING PLACE OF THE AUTHOR OF THE MOST FAMOUS BALLAD.

Lucy Cleveland Writes Feelingly About the Last Place That John Howard Payne Ever Knew as His "Home, Sweet Home."

"You ought to see it, lady!" My quaint Amagansett charioteer pointed with his whip in the direction of an antique mansion half hidden in the shadows that the elm trees threw across its portal.

I had driven over to old East Hampton for an autumn afternoon's pleasuring along its elm embowered street of 100 years. Stretching from one antique windmill to another, each the somber guardian of graves, each the warden of the old village cemeteries, this grand old Main street of East Hampton unrolls its green ribbon of verdure the length of the little town and tempts the tourist to a lazy, lovely loitering in the sherry colored sunset in the sanguine air of seas. Afar the boom of the infinite ocean called. The arms of the old windmills tipped with the last tapestry of day, yearning aloft above the little graveyards, suggested the forever beyond the scattered white line of frozen sorrow far below.

"Yes, you ought to see it, mum!" And, "mum" consenting, my charioteer stopped at the antique threshold of the East Hampton dwelling. It was the house where John Howard Payne, author of the ballad that has sung itself into the heart of the world, passed his boyhood.

It is a modest two story dwelling, standing a little way back from the village street, of frame, shingled and gable roofed. Though it has received, from time to time, some smart adornment, the old house keeps its ancient, soothing spell as you face it from the main street. I know of nothing so quaint out of old New England. On one side of the doorway a board placard, weather beaten by time, mellowed by the years, fingered by the masses and pecked at by the little birds flying out for aye from their home, sweet home beneath the old gray eaves. The quaint placard tells you that within are

The town clerk,
The Bank of East Hampton,
The village notary,

and, as I learned afterward,
The undertaker
and

all in one piece, or in one person—the genial owner today of the old house by the wayside.

Step in—but you won't go far afield or afoot, for the old staircase blocks the way. It winds and beckons up. It is thoroughly Revolutionary. It winds up so that you wonder it doesn't go off at once and play a tune. Ah, you are in the upstairs now! The house is a double house, as we say. But then all the old dwellings of long ago were "double." Did you ever think of that? "Home, sweet homes" and married loves and hearthside. Not apartments, like pianos, on the installment system; not skyscrapers attempting that old plain of Shinar's tall ambitions; not "homes" whence you sallied to get your very dinner and when you got back thanked God up 13 flights that you didn't die from menus and messes. But it is down stairs in the kitchen that the most charming bit is found. This kitchen seems older than the Revolution. It is Cinderellian. In one moment, as you step across its threshold, you are transported with a fairy waft and a fairy wand into the days and the ways that are older than that dear Mother Goose—into the days of Mother Wise. Mother Wise made all the fairy stories in the beginning, do you know? And Mother Wise lived in Egypt 6,000 years before we opened our wise eyelids. And Mother Wise knew Cinderella by heart and by head and wrote down all about her dear little slipper in the vocabulary of the Pharaohs, older than the great pyramid.

As you step into the antique kitchen in the house of John Howard Payne you almost expect to see an ancient Egyptian stalk around the corner and Cheops' sacred pussy cat in a hieroglyphic attitude on the hearth. How quaint—how quaint it is! Didn't I hear little Cinderella's laugh and see those dear little plump hands clapped together with joy? And is that glow flooding window and wall the silver ether that floats around the fairy and dissolves, slowly, in a revolving, radiant rainbow, into colors that the fairy takes and stars in the blue of her eyes and the frank, fresh cherry of her lips?

Really it is all so unreal that it frets you to be told that that is a Revolutionary musket hanging over the old, old fireplace. You mistook it for a club that those grand old Bible fellows brandished when they went down into Egypt and had a fight. How pert and new 1776 is!

It is sorrowful to think that, after he closed the latch of his old sweet home and heard for the last time the clink of the closing door and went out to face the world, John Howard Payne had no home.—Lucy Cleveland in New York Home Journal.

The principal defense of the Dutch in the war with Alva was found in the character of their country. Small bastions, long curtain walls and very wide ditches filled with water were the characteristics of a Dutch fortification.

COCOONS THAT JUMP.
They Can Throw Themselves Several Inches Into the Air.

The curious movements of jumping beans have lately attracted some attention, though to style the spasmodic jerks of the beans jumps is to court disappointment. Some "jumping cocoons," described by Dr. D. Sharp in The Entomologist were, however, remarkably good athletes, for they could spring out of a small vessel, such as a tumbler, in which they were placed. These cocoons were from South Africa, but in spite of their exceptional gymnastic efficiency Dr. Sharp hardened his heart and sacrificed them upon the altar of science, in the hope of discovering something unusual that would explain the powers of jumping.

The cocoons looked like a piece of oval pottery, about 5 millimeters long, and having a rough surface. In each of the two investigated a pupa was found. The two were similar in every respect, and they no doubt belonged to the larvae that made the cocoons. "This little pupa," says Dr. Sharp, "is shut up in a remarkably hard, thick cocoon, and it has to get out. Nature has not provided it with caustic potash for the purpose, but has endowed it with a mechanism of complex perfection to accomplish this little object. On the front of the head it has a sharp, chisel edge, and with this it has to cut through the pottery, contracting itself to the utmost in the posterior part of the cocoon and retaining itself in this position by the hooks on the mobile part of the body. It is a condition of elastic tension in consequence of the other side of the body being so differently formed and immobile.

"Therefore, releasing the hold of the hooks, the pupa is discharged forward, and the chisel piece strikes the front part of the cocoon. Repeating this an enormous number of times, a circle may be gradually inscribed on the inside of the far end of the cocoon, which gives way when sufficiently weakened and the insect becomes free. In both the specimens the inside of the cocoon is about half cut through. Either this is done as the result of a prolonged series of wriggles or of shocks such as I have described. It is by no means improbable that the early part of the performance is carving the groove by wriggling, the latter part knocking it off by jumping against it." The pupa is thus a most interesting one to entomologists. The order of insects to which it belongs appears to be somewhat uncertain, but Dr. Sharp thinks it will prove to be an anomalous lepidopterous insect allied to trichoptera, and possibly somewhere near to adela.

Enjoyable.
"Do you really enjoy shooting?"
"Why, yes, of course," said the dear girl, who had lately bought a light rifle and a lovely pair of hunting bloomers. "Every time I manage to kill a rabbit or a poor little bird I have just the loveliest cry imaginable."—Indianapolis Journal.
